Important Operations on Friday and Yesterday.

The Enemy's Cavalry and Artillery Driven from Phillimont by Gen. Pleasanton.

The Rebels Subsequently Driven from Union.

THE CASUALTIES ON OUR SIDE SLIGHT.

Heavy Firing Yesterday Until Dark.

SNICKER'S GAP IN OUR POSSESSION.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, Sunday, Nov. 2—9½ P. M.

Gen. PLEASONTON came up with the enemy's cavalry and artillery at Phillimont about 11 o'clock yesterday. The fight, which was conducted wholly by artillery, lasted about five hours, when the enemy retreated to Union—a small town three miles beyond. Our loss was one killed and fourteen wounded. The enemy's force consisted of a portion of STUART'S cavalry and one battery. Five of them are known to have been killed.

This morning Gen. PLEASANTON renewed the attack at 8 o'clock. At 10 o'clock he was reinforced by a brigade of infantry. At 1 o'clock the rebels fell back from Union, and our troops occupied the town. Our loss up to 3 o'clock, to-day, was one killed and four wounded. During the action a rebel caisson was exploded by one of our shells.

The enemy's loss is not known.

The firing in that direction was very heavy from 3 o'clock till dark, but the result is not known.

Gen. MCCLELLAN visited the front during this afternoon.

A heavy dust was observed, to-day, at Ashby's Gap. In what direction the rebel troops were moving is not known, the distance being too great.

Another portion of our army took possession of Snicker's Gap to-day. Three brigades of rebel troops were at last advices advancing up the west side of the mountain in two columns. Firing followed, but the results are not yet known.

FROM THE ARMY OF VIRGINIA.

GEN. BAYARD'S EXPEDITION.

Eleven Thousand Rebels Driven Out of Upperville.

HEADQUARTERS, CENTREVILLE, Friday, Oct. 31, 1862.

A couple of Union men arrived here last evening, direct from Upperville, (near Ashby's Gap,) which place they left on Wednesday night. They report that Gen. WALKER, (of the rebel service,) with ten regiments of infantry, twelve pieces of artillery, and two companies (about 200 men) of cavalry, reached Upperville by the way of Ashby's Gap last week, and remained there until Tuesday of this week, when the commanding officer received information that a Union force, under Gen. CRAIG—numbering 11,000 men—was approaching him from the North, and had already reached Snickersville, and that another force, under Gen. BAYARD—numbering 2,000 men—was approaching him from the East by way of Middleburgh, and commenced moving off his force through Paris and Ashby's Gap into the Shenandoah Valley. My informants state that when the advance commenced moving off, it was understood that the Commanding General intended to march at once to Winchester. The following day (Wednesday, the 29th,) a detachment of Gen. BAYARD's command, (which left Chantilly the same day,) commanded by Col. WIENDAM, of the First New-Jersey Cavalry, drove the rear guard of WALKER's command from Middleburgh, through Upperville and Paris, and at last account was running them into Ashby's Gap. Col. WIENDAM is an experienced cavalry officer, (having seen 15 years' active service,) and is said to have managed this affair with consummate skill. Several skirmishes took place—one near Paris and another at Upperville—between Col. WIENDAM's advance and the rear guard of WALKER's army, but our men dashed upon them with such intrepidity that the rebel force—though much superior in numbers to ours—fled in utter dismay. In these skirmishes several of the enemy were wounded, and a number of prisoners and horses were captured. So far as my informant could ascertain, only one of our men was wounded, and that very slightly. Additional information will probably be received here to-day from Ashby's Gap.

SKIRMISH AT THOROUGHFARE GAP.

Another detachment of the same force of cavalry had a skirmish yesterday at Thoroughfare Gap—a place where our soldiers always find the enemy. The affair was of short duration, as the rebels retired to their haunts in the almost impassable hills in the vicinity. If the enemy feel disposed to make a stand at any of the passes along the Blue Ridge, between the points named, there will, doubtless, be stirring news from that quarter before many days; or, in plain terms, they have been challenged to battle, and if they do not run away too fast, they will be compelled to fight.

THE STORY OF TWO COLORED MEN.

Two colored men, who have been in the rebel LONGSTREET'S corps, and in WALKER'S Division, for the last year, deserted the latter command at Upperville on Tuesday night last, and arrived here yesterday. Their story confirms the report given above in relation to WALKER'S force and movements up to Tuesday night. They say the rebel army at Winchester is much larger than it was when it entered Maryland—having received additions in the shape of conscripts, returned convalescents and volunteers; that LONGSTREET has under his command, in all, about 42,000 men—that is what they have heard the officers say,—and that ten days ago, all but Gen. WALKER'S command was at Stephenson's station, a little distance northeast from Winchester, on the Harper's Ferry and Winchester Railroad; they have not heard anything said about the rebel army retreating to Richmond—and do not believe any such movement is contemplated at present; but they have heard something said about the army going into Winter quarters at Gordonsville; as yet, however, they have neither seen or heard of anything that induced them to believe that any special preparations have been made to fall back at all. TOOMBS, LEE, JACKSON and LONGSTREET, with their commands, are within reach of Winchester; they do not know the whereabouts of HILL'S command. These colored men talk more intelligently about military matters than a majority of white men not connected with the army—and, therefore, more than usual reliance is placed in what they say. By a series of cross questions I ascertained that they know all the different commands into which an army is divided,—such as the difference between an army corps, divisions, brigades, regiments, &c.; a battery, section of a battery, &c. In their opinion the rebel army is much demoralized—or, as they express it, the men are growing more and more dissatisfied with the war every day, and many, now the cold weather is approaching, express a determination to go home whether permission is granted them or not. The army is well supplied with fresh meat, bacon and flour, and most of the soldiers have recently received new (cotton) clothing, including overcoats, but they have not enough to make them comfortable these cold nights.

PASSING THE PICKETS.

Bull Run Creek, within our lines, now fordable at almost every point, and therefore merely guarding the usual fords, is not a sufficient protection against the nocturnal visits of strolling bands of rebels. The enemy made us acquainted with this fact last night, by a small party of them coming within our lines, and disturbing the peace of a Union family. They represented themselves to be Union soldiers, and after taking all they desired, took their departure. To-day our pickets have been extended so as to prevent any such unseasonable visits from the enemy.

CAPT. CONGER—LIEUT. CONGER HEARD FROM.

Dr. RULISON, of the Ninth New-York Cavalry, returned yesterday from another professional visit to Capt. CONGER, wounded on Friday last, near Bristow's Station. The Doctor brings a favorable report as to the condition of his patient, and hopes now to be able to bring him within our lines during the ensuing week. The exact locality of the ball has not been discovered yet, but Capt. CONGER has nearly recovered the complete control of both his legs—which were at first paralyzed—and there are other symptoms favorable to his final recovery. Capt. CONGER finds in the family of Dr. OSMAN all the comforts of a home, and is in the most excellent spirits. He was required to give his verbal parole, that he would not take up arms against the so-called Confederate States Government, until properly exchanged. The rebel soldiers who infest the vicinity of his place of confinement, profess to feel the greatest admiration for the Captain's gallant conduct, and daily visit him to inquire for his health. Several soldiers called yesterday while Dr. RULISON was present, and from them he learned that Lieut. CONGER, captured in Friday's fight, but whose fate was before unknown, was in the hands of the rebels, in good health, and would soon be paroled. When Dr. RULISON started to return he was accompanied by three rebel soldiers of the Thirteenth North Carolina Cavalry, as far as Bristow Station. They talked freely of the fight on Friday, when Capt. CONGER was wounded, and in which they participated. They expressed their surprise at finding Northern men who could fight so well, acknowledged that they had sixteen engaged to Capt. CONGER's one, and among other things manifested a strong desire to see peace and good order restored once more in the land.

A FORWARD MOVEMENT ANTICIPATED.

All the quidnuncs and military lawyers in camp—like sailors, soldiers are troubled with the latter class—for once agree upon one point, and that is—this army corps is not destined to go into Winter quarters here, but on the contrary, that it will advance further into the enemy's lines at no distant day. It is impossible to enumerate all the little circumstances which, without any positive knowledge about the matter from official sources, that summed together have brought every one to this conclusion; but the principal indications are that no arrangements whatever have been made to go into Winter quarters; orders issued a few days ago, which seemed to look in that direction, have either been annulled or held in abeyance; the known fact that the pickets of Gen. MCCLELLAN's advance force were last night within a very few miles of those sent out from this corps; and to crown all, the wish prompts it, and the whole country is expecting the army to advance.

The distance between this point and Washington is not great, and the clothing necessary to fit the men out for Winter need not cause much delay, and the quartermasters are assured that our men shall be served just as soon as Gen. MCCLELLAN's troops are supplied.

HOW IT WORKS.

A Mr. BAILEY, a well known Secessionist, residing in the southerly part of Fauquier County, visited Alexandria a few days ago, and there met three of his "boys," worth, as he told the writer, $1,500 apiece, who had left home without a pass. Like a kind master he gave each $5 for spending-money, spoke to them kindly, and directed their attention to home and those near and dear they had left behind. A day or two passed by when he invited them to return to his protection again. The most intelligent of the three promptly replied, that they were Union men, and could not consistently consent to associate with rebels. The spirit of the slave master was aroused, and he threatened to take them by force. Whereupon the spokesman of the party pulled the President's Emancipation Proclamation from his pocket and asked him to read it. By coaxing, however, and assertion that the place where he lived was occupied by Union troops, the oldest of the three "boys" decided that he would accept of the invitation to go home and see his family, knowing that he could get away again if Union troops occupied the place. Armed with suitable credentials, he started for his old home, and reaching this outpost he could not pass beyond our lines without obtaining another signature to his papers. While waiting in front of headquarters for an opportunity to present his papers, a soldier asked him his business, and upon ascertaining that he desired to go beyond our lines, jocosely accused him of being a Secessionist. The individual addressed turned up the whites of his eyes in astonishment, and was dumfoundered when he learned that the rebel and not the Union troops occupied his "old home." That individual came to an about face and made tracks toward Alexandria as fast as possible.

The Fight Between Bayard and Taylor—Capture of a Train of Cars by the Rebels—Sixty Workmen and Thirty Soldiers Taken Prisoners.

CENTREVILLE, Saturday, Nov. 1—8 A. M.

I have this moment returned from an expedition to capture the capturers of a train on the Orange and Alexandria Railroad, and find that my dispatches relative to the fight between BAYARD and TAYLOR, written for the telegraph, was not sent until 3 o'clock this morning, and that the account of the capture of a train of cars and ninety prisoners by the rebels was not sent at all, by special order of Gen. Sigel.

So far as the fight is concerned, there is nothing new. An account of the capture of the train you doubtless have. For fear you have not, however, I will furnish you the general facts. A train, consisting of a locomotive and twelve platform cars, containing (as a guard) thirty-two of the Fifty-eighth New-York Volunteers, commanded by Capt. BROWN, and sixty mechanics and laborers to repair the road, went to Manassas Junction yesterday. Returning, at 5 o'clock P. M., the rebs interrupted their progress at Union Mills, by removing the rails. The locomotive was upset, the engineer and firemen wounded, and thirty soldiers and a majority of the sixty workmen captured.

Gen. SIGEL sent out a force last night which captured the destroyed train.

PARTICULARS OF THE CAPTURES.

BOSTON, Sunday, Nov. 2.

The brig Baron de Castine, of Boston, Capt. SAUNDERS, from Bangor 19th ult., for Cardenas, arrived here this afternoon. She reports on the 29th ult., lat. 39°, long. 69°, was captured by the British pirate Alabama. Capt. SEMMES agreed to liberate the brig for a bond of $6,000, payable to the President of the Confederate States, thirty days after peace is declared. Capt. SAUNDERS gave the bond, and was then informed that he must take as passengers the crews, numbering forty-five in all, of several American vessels which had been previously captured and burnt by the Alabama.

The crews were sent on board the brig, but extra provisions were refused, and Capt. SAUNDERS bore away for the nearest port, to land them.

The following is a list of the vessels taken and burned by the Alabama:

Bark Lamplighter, of Boston, HARDING, from New-York for Gibraltar, captured Oct. 15, in latitude 41° 30', longitude 59° 17', and burnt.

Ship Lafayette, of New-Haven, SMALL, from New-York for Belfast, Ireland, with a cargo of wheat and corn, captured Oct. 23, in latitude 40°, longitude 64°, and burnt.

Schooner Crenshaw, of New-York, NELSON, from New-York for Glasgow, with a cargo of flour. Captured Oct. 26, in latitude 40°, longitude 65°, and burnt. One of the crew of the Crenshaw joined the Alabama.

Bark Lauretta, of Boston, WELLS, from New-York for Madeira. Captured Oct. 28, in latitude 39° 45', longitude 68°, and burnt.

Capt. SEMMES informed the prisoners that on Oct. 10 he captured the ship Tonawanda, of and from Philadelphia, for Liverpool, with passengers on board, and detained her five days, and released her for a bond of $80,000, payable as above.

He also captured the ship Manchester, from New-York for Liverpool, and the brig Dunkirk, from New-York for Lisbon, and burnt them, putting their crews on board the Tonawanda.

Capt. HARDING, of the bark Lamplighter, makes the following report: 15th ult., at daylight, lat. 41° 30', long. 50° 17°, wind South, with thick weather, saw a ship standing to the Southward; in half an hour the weather cleared up a little, and she altered her course and stood across our bows with the British flag flying. I then made her out to be a steamer; when within a mile he fired a gun, hauled down the British flag, and ran up the Confederate flag; I hove to, and he sent a boat on board, demanded my papers, and declared me a prize. We were sent on board the steamer. I was allowed to take one trunk, and my officers and crew one bag each. Capt. SEMMES ordered his First Lieutenant to go on board of the bark and burn her immediately. I begged him to save my ship, but he replied: "I hope to be able to serve you a d——d sight worse yet." They then went on board to burn my ship. I was permitted to go with them. When we went into the cabin they asked for liquor. I gave them all I had. They drank some and emptied the remainder on the floor. Then they took the oil cans out of the locker, and poured the oil on the floor, and then at 8 o'clock in the morning they set the vessel on fire. We were then transferred to the steamer and put in irons and almost starved. The pirate then continued to cruise under sail, but with steam up, until she captured all the above vessels. The crews were all put in irons as soon as captured. Those on board of the Alabama had full files of the New-York Herald and pictorial papers, containing an account of the former captures by the Alabama. Capt. HARDING was informed by the Second Lieutenant and several of the petty officers that their next destination was New-York, as they meant to throw a few shells into that City.

Capt. HARDING represents the Alabama as very formidable, but he does not think she is as fast as has been reported. When he left her the crew were mounting two large pivot guns, one forward and the other aft. He thinks they were 100-pounders.

Capt. SMALL, of the ship Lafayette, reports that when he was introduced to Capt. SEMMES he produced his British Consular certificate, and remarked to Capt. SEMMES, that he supposed that would be sufficient protection. Capt. SEMMES replied, "The New-York people are getting very smart, but it won't save you; it's all a d——d hatched up mess." He then gave orders to burn the ship.

INTERESTING FROM PORT ROYAL.

The Recent Attack on the Charleston and Savannah Railroad—Accounts in the Savannah Papers—An English Blockade-Runner Captured—A Slight Touch of Yellow Fever—Illness of Gen. Mitchel, &c.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

PORT ROYAL, S. C., Wednesday, Oct. 29, 1862.

No events of especial importance have transpired here since the Pocotaligo fight, full accounts of which you have already received. Last Monday two men of the Forty-Seventh Georgia Regiment made their escape from Savannah, and reached Fort Pulaski, bringing with them Savannah papers of the 24th and 25th insts., which contain accounts of the fight. They report that the reception of the news of our attack at Pocotaligo created great excitement in that city, and all the available force there was hurried forward to protect the railroad. Gen. BEAUREGARD, who was in Savannah at the time, immediately left for the scene of action. The dispatches announcing the repulse of the Abolitionists (Gen. BEAUREGARD is fulfilling his dreadful threat, and calls us Abolitionists,) calmed the excitement. A nervous feeling still exists, however,—arising from the reports of two Union prisoners, taken at Pocotaligo, who declare it our intention to attack Savannah, within two days, at four different points. Much disaffection and depression exists among the soldiers in and about Savannah, and Union sentiments are frequently manifested by the citizens. Strong earthworks are being erected about Savannah for the protection of the city, and Gov. BROWN makes an earnest appeal, through the papers, to the planters of Southern and Southwestern Georgia, for 500 negroes to complete the works in thirty days. The iron ram Fingal is reported to be nearly finished, and we shall expect to see her before long.

Last Thursday night, 23d inst., the schooner Tuills, Capt. LOGANSON, got ashore near St. Helena Island while attempting to run the blockade. Capt. LOGANSON, finding it impossible to get the vessel off, set fire to her, and, with two men, comprising his crew, attempted to escape in a small boat, but all three were captured by our pickets. The vessel is a small English schooner, of 18 tons, from Nassau, with a cargo consisting chiefly of salt. The schooner and cargo are almost entirely destroyed.

The steamer Burnside, Capt. WILCOX, was towed into this port last Friday night, (24th,) by the gunboat Sebago. When off Tybee Light, bound from Fernandina to this port, the vessel became unmanageable in a gale of wind, and was driven ashore. Her screw was broken and rudder carried away, but Capt. WILCOX, by letting go the anchor, saved the vessel from becoming a wreck. Word was got to Capt. SCOTT, of the gunboat Sebago, blockading in Warsaw Sound, who, upon learning the critical condition of the vessel, promptly went to her assistance, and succeeded in towing her into this port. She will be sent to New-York for repairs.

Yellow fever has threatened us here, and at first gave rise to some anxiety, but the lateness of the season, and the fact that the disease was confined to one or two particular localities, has quieted all alarm. Two or three cold nights which we have experienced lately, have probably killed it, but I regret to add not before it had numbered among its victims Capt. J. C. WILLIAMS, Aid-de-Camp on Gen. MITCHEL'S Staff, and Capt. L. A. WARFIELD, Chief Commissary of Subsistence at this depôt.

Capt. WARFIELD died last Thursday after a short sickness, and was buried here yesterday with military honors. He was formerly Chief Commissary of the Second Brigade, under the lamented STEVENS, at Beaufort. A few weeks before his death, he was placed by the General in command in charge of the Commissary Department at this depôt. His strict and prompt business habits made him a most valuable and efficient servant to the Government, while his urbane and courteous demeanor gained for him the esteem and confidence of all who were brought in contact with him.

I regret to have to announce the illness of Gen. MITCHEL. He is said to be suffering from fever, and has removed his quarters to Beaufort, for a change of air and scene.

Gen. J. M. BRANNAN is for the time being in command of the post.

Capt. ELWELL, Assistant Quartermaster, has been attacked with yellow fever, but is now out of danger and in a fair way of recovery. B, J. S.

THE DEFENCES OF SAVANNAH.

To the Planters of Middle, Southern and Southwestern Georgia: MARIETTA, Ga., Oct. 17, 1862.

An eminent necessity has caused Gov. BROWN to appeal to you for a laboring force to work on the defences around Savannah. No more negroes will be received than is actually necessary to complete the work in thirty days. Agents will be in the several counties to receive the negroes and receipt for them. T. A. PARSONS, General Superintendent.

THE TALK OF RECOGNITION.

Important Changes in the French Ministry.

DECLINE IN COTTON.

HALIFAX, Saturday, Nov. 1.

The R. M. steamship Arabia, Capt. STONE, which left Liverpool, at 2 P. M. of the 18th, and Queenstown the 19th ult., arrived at Halifax at 1½ A. M. to-day. She experienced strong westerly gales the whole passage. She has 109 passengers for Boston.

Her advices are three days later than those by the Edinburgh at New-York.

The R. M. steamship Scotia, from New-York, arrived at Queenstown about 1½ P. M. of the 17th ult., and reached Liverpool at 8 A. M. of the 18th.

GREAT BRITAIN.

The Daily News correspondent at Spezzia says intelligence has reached there that two Confederate cruisers have entered the Mediterranean—Capt. SEMMES being in command of one. It was rumored they had already sunk or burned twelve Federal vessels, and the American Consuls at all the ports were on the alert to spread the tidings and provide measures for future safety. [Query—This may be another version of the statement already published, of the destruction of whalers.]

The London Daily News compliments Sir G. C. LEWIS for his remarks against the recognition of the South, regarding them as ministerial in significance. It says they will go far to still the rising clamor of reckless and thoughtless men. It adds: "Notwithstanding Mr. GLADSTONE's statement, the Government are of opinion that JEFFERSON DAVIS has not made the Southern States a nation, and until he has, England will certainly not interfere."

The same journal editorially picks to pieces Ex-Gov. MOREHEAD's Liverpool oration, and the New-Orleans correspondence recently published in the London Times, and contends that the arguments used clearly show that, with the South, Slavery is the beginning, middle and end of the whole revolution.

The London Herald calls attention to the conflicting views of Mr. GLADSTONE and Sir G. C. LEWIS, relative to America, and says that they ought not to sit in the same Cabinet.

The Herald then controverts the views of Sir G. C. LEWIS, and says that former precedents will justify the present recognition of the South.

The Army and Navy Gazette says that it is pefectly obvious that the number of men in the field touch the limits of the fighting population, both North and South, and when to this is added the armies swallowed up in swamps, in battle-fields, in marches, and rendered non-effective by sickness, by wounds and by parole, the intervention which is to arise from the hard logic of accomplished facts, is more likely to terminate the war—a war in which much ignorance of the first principles of military science has been evinced, and great indifference shown to human life.

The London Times writes up the cultivation of flax in England, and shows it could be profitably and satisfactorily done.

A Garibaldi meeting came off at the London Tavern, on the 17th, without disturbance. Mr. WOOD member of Parliament for London, presided. The attendance was very large, but embraced few persons of note. The speeches were moderate. Resolutions were adopted expressing sympathy with GARIBALDI, and the cause he represents, viz: complete unity, and protesting against the continued occupation of Rome by the French troops, as insulting to Italy and dangerous to the peace of Europe. The resolutions were embodied in a memorial to Earl RUSSELL.

FRANCE.

The retirement of M. THOUVENEL from the Ministry attracted much attention, and led to various speculations. The change was thought to be unfavorable for the settlement of the Roman question. It was reported that several other members of the French Cabinet, who rather favored the evacuation of Rome, will retire, and that the Cabinet will be essentially a new one. The appointment of DROUYN DE L'HUYS to the Foreign Ministry, was regarded as a blow to the hopes of the Italians.

The latest rumors assert that M. FOULD and Count PERSIGNY, have both tendered their resignations, but there is nothing certain.

It was reported that M. FOULD was about to visit Marseilles, and make a speech there which will create a sensation in politics and commerce.

Marshal CANROBERT is appointed commander of the Military Division of Lyons, and the Duke of Magenta that of Nancy.

The Times' Paris correspondent reports that the Emperor returned from Biarritz in a very ultramontane spirit. What may be the cause of this sudden change, from indifference to piety seems to puzzle France. The latest phase of the Imperial mind gives the victory for a time to the priestly party. No doubt, for the present, there is an end to all thoughts of an evacuation of Rome.

The Bourse on the 17th was firm; Rentes 71f. 25c.

ITALY.

It was stated that the withdrawal of M. THOUVENEL from the French Ministry created an immense sensation at Turin, and the rumor that RATAZZI had resigned received some credence.

There are also vague rumors from Rome that Cardinal ANTONELLI and Mons. MERODE had tendered their resignations.

It was reported that Prince HENRI DE LA TOUR D'AUVERGNE is to be the new French Minister to Rome.

PORTUGAL.

The Japanese Embassadors had reached Lisbon.

DENMARK.

A dispatch from Earl RUSSELL to the Danish Government, dated Sept. 24, on the Schleswig-Holstein question, is published. It expresses very unfavorable views of the Danish claims on the German Duchies, and recommends the Danish Government to cancel the common Constitution for Denmark and Schleswig. The Danish Government in reply positively declines to accept the recommendations of Earl RUSSELL.

THE LATEST NEWS.

LIVERPOOL, Saturday, Oct. 18—P. M.

The Times to-day is silent on American affairs.

The Daily News briefly points to the desperation and barbarism of the slave drivers, as evidenced by the proceedings of the Confederate Congress.

The Morning Herald reverts to Sir E. G. LEWIS' speech regarding America, and again argues in opposition thereto. It says that the time has arrived for the recognition of the South, and that the greatest mistake future times will point out in the foreign policy of Lord PALMERSTON will be the long delay in recognizing the Confederates.

The Morning Post also has an argument against Sir G. C. LEWIS' views as to the time for recognition, and says they are totally at variance with the accepted practice of nations.

Stores for the Confederate States—The Stars and Stripes Disabled—A Letter from Secretary Seward.

The following items are extracted from late files of the Nassau Guardian:

The steamer Bonita has arrived from Liverpool, with a cargo of "brass, iron, quinine," &c.

The gunboat Stars and Stripes touched at Nassau, 16th, en route to Key West, with shaft damaged. The Guardian says the pilots of the port have been forbidden, under a penalty of deprivation, to bring in any belligerent vessel in future, unless the permission of the Governor is first obtained.

The Guardian, of the 22d, contains the following: We have received the permission of His Excellency the Governor to publish the following letter from Mr. Secretary SEWARD to Mr. Secretary GIDEON WELLES, inclosed in the reply to a dispatch written by Gov. BAYLEY to the Duke of NEWCASTLE on the subject of the chase of the Herald by the United States steamer Adirondack:

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14, 1862.

SIR: Current newspaper reports, which, of course, may not be altogether reliable, give some reason for believing that the U. S. steamship Adirondack has lately continued the chase of a British vessel, The Herald, understood to be engaged in violating the blockade, even within the line of maritime jurisdiction, that is to say, within a marine league of the shore of the island of New Providence. The President desires that you ascertain the truth of this fact with as little delay as possible, since, if it be true, the Commander of the Adirondack has committed an inexcusable violation of the law of nations, for which acknowledgment and reparation ought to be promptly made. To guard against any such occurrence hereafter, the President desires that you at once give notice to all commanders of American vessels of war, that this Government adheres to, recognizes and insists upon the principle that the maritime jurisdiction of every nation covers a full marine league from the coast, and that acts of hostility or of authority within a marine league of any foreign country, by any naval officer of the United States, are strictly forbidden, and will bring upon such officer the displeasure of his Government.

I have, &c.,
(Signed,) WILLIAM H. SEWARD.
Hon. GIDEON WELLES.

We are happy to learn that His Excellency, the Governor, has received a dispatch from the Duke of Newcastle, informing him that Hon. W. STUART, Her Majesty's Chargé d'Affaires at Washington, has been instructed to request the release of J. EDWARDES, who is said to be serving in the United States Navy at Fernandina, and to endeavor to trace the other captive, SIRARUP, kidnapped from Grand Bahama last year and sold as slaves.

Release of Civil Prisoners at Burlington, Vt.

BURLINGTON, Friday, Oct. 31.

Dr. GEORGE LEE LYMAN and M. V. B. BARNEY, who were arrested in August last for disloyalty, were discharged to-day on taking the oath of allegiance, by order of the War Department.

FROM THE PACIFIC COAST.

Arrival of the Ocean Queen, with a Million in Specie.

Confirmation of the News of the Triumph of Mosquera.

Later from the Central and South American States.

The steamship Ocean Queen, Capt. TINKLEPAUGH, from Aspinwall on the 25th ult., with the California mails, passengers and treasure, arrived at this port yesterday. The specie list, which will be found under our monetary head, foots up over a million dollars.

The Ocean Queen brings our Panama, Central American, and South American correspondence, which will be found below.

PANAMA.

Later News from the Interior—Full Confirmation of the Victory of Mosquera—Panama Tranquil—Movements of United States Vessels, &c.

From Our Own Correspondent.

PANAMA, Saturday, Oct. 25, 1862.

We have no late arrivals from the interior of the Republic, but by way of Ecuador we have full confirmation of the news I sent you by last mail of the brilliant victory of Gen. SANTOS GUTIERREZ, of the Mosquera Party, in Cauca, over the reactionary forces headed by Gen. ENOS CORDOVA and others, and of the death on the field of battle of ex-Gov. JARALDO, leader of the Reactionary Party in Antioquia. Not over 500 of the 3,000 Centralists or Conservatives escaped, and these fled toward Antioquia. Everyone hereabouts has full confidence that our tiresome revolution is ended, and that Gen. MOSQUERA is master of the situation.

The state of Panama is tranquil, the Provisional Government of Don MANUEL DIAS being firmly established. The State Convention is soon to meet. Don MANUEL will no doubt be elected Governor.

Several of the Fabrega family, the leaders of the Legitimists in this State, have arrived here from Santiago, and have not been molested by the party in power.

The difficulties between the Church and State growing out of the Mosquera mortmain decree, have been temporarily settled, and the temples are all reopened to worshipers again.

We have the U. S. steam corvette Lancaster and the U. S. steam frigate Saranac in port. Two hundred men came out last Tuesday in the Ocean Queen to relieve a few men sent home and to fill up the quota of the Lancaster. The U. S. sloop-of-war Cyane is at Callao. Purser WHITE, of that ship, goes home to-day invalided; We have been long expecting the U. S. brig Bainbridge at Aspinwall, to relieve the brig Perry, which latter vessel is ordered to Key West.

The Ocean Queen brought out the largest freight ever brought to Aspinwall by an American steamer—1,200 tons—all for California. She takes home to-day only fifty-seven California passengers.

The British screw-steamer Askalon landed a very large cargo of foreign goods from England, at Aspinwall last week, mostly destined for Central and South America. She sailed with a large return cargo of the products of the same States, for Jamaica and England on the 22d instant.

Col. G. M. TOTTEN, principal manager of the Panama Railroad Company on the Isthmus, and JOSEPH SCOTT, Esq., manager at Aspinwall of the Vanderbilt Line of Steamers, go home on the Ocean Queen to-day.

CENTRAL AMERICA.

Failure of the Attempt at Fusion—A Revolution Expected in Nicaragua—Fear of Fillibusters, &c.

PANAMA, Saturday, Oct. 25, 1862.

The Panama Railroad Company's steamship Guatemala, Capt. J. M. DOW, arrived at Panama from Central American ports on the 20th. She brings dates from the Central American States to the middle of the present month, but her news is not important.

The attempt at fusion of the five States into a Confederated Republic has failed, of course, everybody wanting to be President and every State claiming the Capital. Indeed, instead of friendly consolidation, these little Republics seem to be preparing for wars with each other. An alliance, defensive and offensive, has been made between Guatemala and Nicaragua, said to be directed against Salvador and Honduras. Honduras is complaining of Salvador for having incited her Indians to revolt, and a very bad feeling seems to be springing up between these two States.

In Nicaragua the voting resulted in the choice of electors in favor of Don TOMAS MARTINEZ, the present occupant of the chair, as President. The vote is to be declared by the Assembly in January, when a revolution is confidently predicted, the Chomorro and Jerez party being illy satisfied with the selection of Don TOMAS.

We have reports, both by the Pacific and Atlantic steamers, that orders had been given to the commanders of the forts of San Carlos and Castillo Rapid to prevent by force the passage of steamers with the Transit Company's passengers, unless the line was in full operation on or before the 19th October present, as the company convened to commence operations before that date. Mr. WALTER CAMPBELL, agent of the company, writes to Commander NEWCOMB, of the United States brig-of-war Perry, at Aspinwall, that he expects trouble, but I do not believe the Government of Nicaragua will make use of any force to prevent the transit of bona fide passengers, however much it may regret having granted this privilege. The fact is, the Government is frightened to death at the prospect of another fillibuster invasion, and has made up its mind that these steamers will be made use of for that purpose, when the Southern rebellion in the United States shall have collapsed; or that Senator POUDROY is coming down upon them with his black Phillistines. The richer classes, too, do not like to have the labor of the country drawn off from the haciendas, by the better wages of the Transit Company.

The steamer San Juan, intended for Lake Nicaragua, had not been injured greatly on the Machuca Rapid, as reported, but had arrived safely at Granada. The river steamer had been completed, and made her trial trip last Sunday. It is to be hoped that the establishment of a Nicaragua line will induce some improvement in the New-York line to Aspinwall, as it needs it bad enough.

We have nothing new from Costa Rica.

SOUTH AMERICA.

News from Ecuador, Peru, Bolivia and Chili—Visit of Dr. Mackie to Valparaiso, &c.

From our Own Correspondent.

PANAMA, Saturday, Oct. 25, 1862.

The British Mail Steamship Peru, from Southern ports, arrived at Panama on the 22d. She brings dates from Valparaiso and Santiago de Chili to Oct. 2, from Bolivia to the 20th September, from Callao and Lima to Oct. 15, and from Ecuador to Oct. 17.

ECUADOR.

A conspiracy to overthrow the present Government had been discovered at Guayaquil, and frustrated. The conspirators seem to have been employed by the ex-chiefs ROBLES and URBINA, who have apparently been keeping quiet since their overthrow by MORENO and FLORES. A ramification of the plot, no doubt, was the late attempt to seize Gen. FLORES by an expedition fitted out in Callao. The friends of ROBLES, it is hinted, through the assistance of President CASTILLA, of Peru, had purchased the old British steamship New-Granada, for $36,000, and placed men on board of her, for the purpose of seizing FLORES, who was known to be spending his time on an island in the Guayaquil River. But after leaving Callao, the New-Granada broke down, and the objects of the conspirators were thus frustrated.

We have also further confirmation of the rumor that President MORENO had refused to comply with the secret articles of his late treaty, in which he offered to aid Gen. ARBOLEDA to resist President MOSQUERA in Cauca, in the Republic of New Granada. The agent of ARBOLEDA, after vainly endeavoring to get assistance in Ecuador, had retired from Quito and gone to Pasto. It is well that President MORENO has been wise in time—for MOSQUERA's chief, GUTIERREZ is before this in Pasto, on his borders, with 4,000 men, and could march to Quito, if he wished, without opposition.

PERU.

The news from Peru is not important. Gen. SAN ROMAN, President elect, had arrived at Lima from Arequipa, and was to have been inaugurated on the 24th of October. His reception by the people of Callao and Lima was very enthusiastic.

The question as to whether Peru would confirm the bargain of her Minister in London, who borrowed eleven millions of dollars on very onerous terms, was still under discussion in Congress, but as money must be had, no doubt the funds will soon be put in circulation. In the meantime, four or five millions of it, which has reached Lima, still remains in the hands of the consignees.

Last year Congress authorized President CASTILLA to make war on Bolivia whenever he might find it convenient; but lacking funds with which to do it, up to the present time, he has failed to marshal his hosts for the field. Now that the Government has eleven millions of dollars in hand, Congress has wisely withdrawn this power, ordered a reduction of the army, and authorized and enjoined the President to treat with Bolivia for a "permanent peace."

The salaries of most of the public employes, which were raised in 1860, have been reduced by order of Congress to the former scale.

The Government is endeavoring to repress gaming, which has acquired such ascendancy over all classes of persons, especially the higher classes, in Lenia and Chorrillas.

Robberies in Lima were less frequent than heretofore, and the highways in the country were comparatively secure.

The amount of guano exported from the Chincha Islands in the month of September, was 24,391 tons register, all to Europe. Freights, £3 15. Exchange on London, 60 and 70 days', 46d. per dollar.

BOLIVIA.

The report I sent you by last steamer that President ACHA had completely defeated Gen. GREGORIO PEREZ, the Revolutionist, on the plains of Oruro, is fully confirmed. PEREZ had 2,400 men, and ACHA about 1,900. The former lost between 200 and 300 in killed; the balance dispersed or were taken prisoners, and PEREZ fled, it is supposed, toward the Argentine Provinces. On this news reaching LA PAZ, an attempt was made at reaction, but after a little firing on both sides and some robberies, quiet was restored. It is said that PEREZ has still quite a force near LA PAZ, and the people of that capital were much alarmed for their lives and property. There does not seem to be much prospect of permanent tranquility in Bolivia. Mr. CARTER, United States Minister resident, was active in his efforts to bring about peace there.

Exchange on England, 90 days, 39d. ℔ $1.

CHILI.

The people had got through with their feasts, &c., in honor of Chilian independence. The Congress in Santiago is occupied in arrangements for bettering the fiscal condition of the country. Business had so accumulated in Congress that the extension of its term thirty days was considered insufficient to close it up.

The President has vetoed the bill exempting copper from export duties when worked with domestic coal. He proposes an extension of the time to eighteen months, instead of six, as provided for in the bill.

Dr. JAMES MACKIE, of the Diplomatic Bureau, at Washington, and who went to Bolivia as special agent of the Government, had made a flying visit to Valparaiso and Santiago, and been received with great honors by the principal public men and private citizens of the latter city. Dr. M. was made an honorary member of the Society of the "American Union" of Chili, on which occasion they had a very happy time, and eloquent speeches were made on both sides. The Doctor presented an American flag to the Society, which, in its turn, presented him with a beautiful Chilean flag to take to his family, so that in the day of reunion, blended with his own colors, it might be placed in the capital. Subsequently, a magnificent banquet was given to Dr. MACKIE; and one of the newspapers remarks of it, that rarely has there been enjoyed in Santiago a more splendid fête than that given by the Society of the "American Union" to Mr. MACKIE in the salons of the Casino. The dining hall was magnificently and elegantly decorated. In the centre was a beautiful portrait of WASHINGTON, to which a majestic appearance was given by the Star-spangled banner, which enveloped it in its folds. Opposite the Liberator of the North was the portrait of BOLIVAR, the Liberator of the South, enveloped in a cloud of flags of the American nations. O'HIGGINS and SUCRE, united above trophies of crowns and flags, LAS HERAS, FREIRE, and CAMILLO HENRIQUEZ, all heroes, and the noble martyrs of our independence, were there, grave and majestic, reflecting with the vast splendor of their glories this reunion of noble hearts which came to offer upon the altars of this country the tribute of patriotism. FREIRE, enveloped in a Chilian flag; LAS HERAS, covered with the flags of Peru and Buenos Ayres, presented the true emblems of triumphant liberty in the front of the hall. Over the immense mirror, the tricolor of Chili, intertwined with the flags of Mexico and the United States, manifested, also, the sympathies of Chili for a noble cause and for our unhappy people. All the walls were adorned with the beautiful trophies formed by the interlaced flags of the Republican sisters, garlanded with flowers, and crowned with the national colors.

From 3 o'clock in the afternoon until 5, the guests were assembled in the ante-rooms, where they were served with abundant refreshments. At 5 o'clock the banquet was served, and before seating themselves, Don MANUEL A. MATTA, in the name of Gen. LAS HERAS, President of the "American Union," placed in the hands of Mr. MACKIE his diploma as an honorary member. In a frank and beautiful address. The table presented a magnificent tout ensemble. Immense vases of graceful flowers, fanciful structures of fruits, a multitude of fountains, adorned with patriotic symbols and devices, were all arranged with the most perfect taste. Substantials, side dishes, dessert and confections, for all tastes, with the richest wines in abundance—nothing was wanting—nothing could be more delicate.

Never have we seen, says the Editor, a more universal happiness, a more cordial frankness. The voice of America was heard in every part of the hall, with all the powerful energy of the sentiment of liberty. One idea only moved the intellect. All were echoes from the voice of a single conscience. There was a united people—an American people—who drew tighter their mutual ties, seeking at the same time to lay the foundations of their future progress. There were 125 guests present.

"Misfortunes make strange bed-fellows." Before the appropriation of San Domingo by Spain, and before France threatened to swallow down Mexico, most, if not all, of these Spanish Republics pretended to look upon the United States as their most dangerous enemy, and were ready to join hands with any one or all the Powers of Europe against us. England and France were everywhere courted, and the "salvajes" of North America were despised and contemned. I have written out, as above, a short account of this banquet to Dr. MACKIE, for the double purpose of showing that late events have proved to these States who are their real friends; and to impress upon the Government at Washington the importance, when it has occasion to send special agents abroad, of sending men of high character, intelligence and approved patriotism, like Dr. MACKIE, instead of such men as we have been accustomed to meet, on such errands, on this Isthmus, during the former Administration.

Business in Valparaiso had been dull the preceding fortnight. Cotton goods are high and in demand. Articles for the United States market, such as hides, &c., have lost their value as exchanges with that country. Rates of interest are low, but only first-class paper can be negotiated. Woolens, linens and silks have improved in price. Stock of common lumber very large, and sells slowly. Choice kinds from the Atlantic States wanted. Powder has lately been imported from California; prices tend downward. No Carolina rice in market. No change in the price of flour. Barley is held at $1 75 the fanega, cash; prospects of the crop poor. Copper bars sold at $16 05. Exchange—on London, 60 and 90 days, 45@45¼ pence ℔ dollar. No exchange selling on United States. Freights—To England and Hamburg, $3 3s. @£3 5s.; to United States, $15 ℔ English ton.

I mentioned in my last, the loss or abandonment of the American clipper ship Reporter, near Cape Horn. Further particulars have reached Valparaiso.

The English ship Enchantress, arrived at Caldera about the middle of September, bringing four men saved from the Reporter, WHITE, Master, from Boston, lost in her way from New-York to San Francisco. About the 7th of AUGUST, when in lat. 50 S. (no longitude given, probably 60° W.) a violent gale from the northwest commenced to blow with only occasional lulls. On the 16th, the Reporter made Cape Horn, at a distance of about twenty miles. The violence of both weather and sea compelled her, when already badly damaged, to put back, in hopes of arriving safely at the Falkland Islands.

On the 17th, the vessel was leaking badly, without any possibility of bailing her. The men could not work any longer at the pumps. The sea broke over her at every minute, washing overboard every moveable on deck.

While in this desperate position the Enchantress came in sight, and perceiving the condition of the Reporter and her crew, laid by, in spite of the violence of the gale, and made noble efforts for their rescue. Those unhappy men had been working whole days and nights, and were entirely exhausted. There were no boats left. The sea had swept them off. It was impossible to draw near the sinking vessel during the gale. At noon on the 17th of August there were ten feet of water in the hold, ane the ship had settled four feet by the stern. The Captain in this perilous juncture sent on a raft the first mate and seventeen remaining men to the Enchantress. They all perished. Then the Captain of the R., with the seventeen remaining hands, abandoned her on a raft, to seek protection on board the E., but fourteen of them, including the Captain—W. HENRY WHITE—perished in the attempt, out of exposure and exhaustion. Only four men out of thirty-six were saved, and brought by the E. to Caldera, as stated.

ARGENTINE REPUBLIC.

There is news from the Argentine Republic. Everything is quiet.

OUR NEW-ORLEANS CORRESPONDENCE.

An Old Planter on the Emancipation Proclamation—The Pro-Slavery Party—Gen. Weitzel's Brigade Reviewed—A Torch-light Procession by the Workmen—Speeches from Gens. Butler and Shepley—A Dinner to Gen. Weitzel.

NEW-ORLEANS, Thursday, Oct. 23, 1862.

I met an old planter a day or two ago, who has lost nearly one hundred negroes by the present rebellion, who saluted me as follows: "Halloo ——, you Northern Yankees are making a d—n sight more noise about President LINCOLN's Proclamation than we Southerners are." The remark is most truthful, and shows in the most painful light, that the miserable truckling to the Slave oligarchy by certain presses and persons of the North is chronic, and cannot be cured even by the horrors and sacrifices which have been entailed on the country by the present war. This sudden uprising of certain old political elements, which I thought if not dead, were at least paralyzed, is indeed disgusting, and but for my thorough conviction that the great mass of the people are sound, I should almost despair. I have yet to hear one word in the streets against the Emancipation Proclamation from my Southern acquaintances. They all say to me—this is exactly what might have been expected; and more—so utterly disorganized have the slaves become, that the institution, under its old order, is forever destroyed and worthless, no matter what Mr. LINCOLN or anyone else may say on the subject.

I must confess that from this distance the Pro-Slavery howl that is going up at the North is one of the most humiliating things that could have occurred at this particular crisis; it has strengthened the hands of the rebellion more than would a hundred thousand troops added to those already under LEE at Richmond. What is the real foundation of this sudden furore? It is beyond a doubt latent treason, that is taking this course to give aid and comfort to the enemy. What do these people expect? We might as well vote to sustain their army and give them a powerful navy, as to vote to give them back intact their Slavery institution. It is a military necessity that it shall sink before the progress of the rebellion, and we might as well at the North howl over the slain of the rebel armies as an unconstitutional loss, as to get up at this most unfortunate time Slavery excitement. In the name of Heaven, will the time in this country never come when the great free States of the North will look after the interests of the white man; is there nothing good or beautiful but the miserable negro; nobody's rights to be respected but the owners of this precious humanity?

There is one subject, however, worthy of the especial attention of the North, and that is the necessity of a speedy opening of the Mississippi River. I find that there is growing here a strong feeling of dissatisfaction among Western men that the entire energies of the war are devoted to the ineffectual taking of Richmond, while all other great material interests are made subordinate. The idea is that the Northern and Middle States ought to be sufficiently powerful to subdue the rebel Capital, and that the States of the West should no longer be drained of their fighting men, to have them sacrificed on the banks of the Potomac, while not the slightest effort is made to open the Mississippi. They argue that the States along the seaboard have an open commerce with all the world, while they, the Western States, have, without any absolute necessity, their natural and legitimate egress to the sea blockaded; and more than all, that the speedy opening of the river would be one of the most effectual ways of drawing off the troops from Virginia, and thus properly divide up the fighting. There is no use of disguising the fact, that this supineness regarding the Mississippi is working against the efficient prosecution of the war; there is dissatisfaction and grumbling that is taking shape and crystalizing, under the influence of secession, into formidable proportions; the first official announcement of this feeling being the recent bid by the rebel Congress for sympathy from the Western States.

Saturday afternoon, the 18th inst., was made memorable by a military review of Gen. WEITZEL's brigade, which was one of the finest ever witnessed in the military city of New-Orleans. The occasion, perhaps, called forth more interest from the fact that the General has created here a warm personal interest in his behalf, which was shown by the unusual turn-out of our citizens. The brigade, consisting of five regiments, with two batteries of artillery, marched about four miles from Camp Kearny, on the upper line of the city, and entered Commerce-street in column, and continued to Magazine, then turned down Canal, and formed along the broad avenue. The day was unexceptionably fine, and the men looked superb, and as they came tramping along, it made the hearts of Union men beat with joy at the appearance of so much valor and strength, bearing the Union flag along highways that were but a few months ago desecrated by rebel rags, or made hideous by treasonable shouts. The head of the column was composed of a squadron of cavalry, led by Capt. PERKINS; then came the Eighth New-Hampshire Volunteers, the First Louisiana, the Thirteenth Connecticut, the Seventy-fifth New-York, recently from Pensacola, and the Twelfth Maine. Then came a fine battery of artillery, with six brass pieces, the flag bearing the ominous words "Baton Rouge," and another battery, of four iron rifled guns, all in perfect order—men and horses being as fine as possible. The troops marched down the lower side of the street and came to a rest. At precisely 3, to a moment—the official time set for the review—the line was formed, a fact that speaks volumes for the future efficiency of Brig.-Gen. WEITZEL—for I hold it to be true that a soldier who is not instinctively precise in small things, will fail somewhere when important matters are under consideration. A few moments only elapsed before a movement was seen on the extreme right, and Major-Gen. BUTLER, accompanied by his Staff, rode down the lines, the usual honors being paid as he passed. The General looked uncommonly well, and his Staff was in full force, among which were Lieut.-Col. KENSMAN, Major STRONG, Col. SHAFFER, Col. TURNER, Col. FRENCH, Judge BELL, Capt. KENNEL, Capt. CLARK, Major HAGGERTY, Capt. PAFFER, Lieut. MARTIN, and others. Accompanying, also, were Gen. SHEPLEY and Staff, Gen. SHERMAN and Staff, and Brig.-Gen. ARNOLD and Staff, among whom I should mention was Col. WILSON, of the New-York Zouaves. At the appearance of this brilliant cortège, Gen. WEITZEL took his position in front of his brigade and was for the moment prominent to all spectators; it was his first appearance in such a rôle, and he attracted universal attention, and commanded the intensest interest. As the Commanding General rode by, WEITZEL's salute would have called forth cheers from the severest martinets at West Point. Gen. BUTLER and Staff, having passed up and down the line, front and rear, subjecting each corps to a searching scrutiny, the General took his position at the intersection of Canal and St. Charles streets, directly under the fine statue of HENRY CLAY, when the troops at the word of command, broke into platoons. The head of the column, led by Gen. WEITZEL, then passed in review, the entire affair seeming to elicit the greatest satisfaction on the part of Gen. BUTLER and the officers with which he was surrounded. During the display, the streets were crowded with people, there being a larger number present than ever before on such an occasion.

On the evening of the same day, our citizens were greeted by the appearance of a torchlight procession, the first that has graced our streets since "the fleet came up the river." It turned out that the men composing it were what is termed "the laborers on the canals," some three hundred strong, who have been all summer at work in the water arteries of this amphibious metropolis. Bearing brilliant flambeaux, and carrying in front a handsome United States flag, and accompanied with a fine band of music, the procession moved from the rear of the city down Camp street, and it was soon rumored, from this fact, that it was on its way to "Headquarters," to give Major-Gen. BUTLER a serenade. Arriving at the place of destination, the band played "Hail to the Chief," when a Committee composed of three workingmen, waited upon the General, and after some little ceremony, read the following resolutions:

Whereas, We the laborers employed on the canals of this city, deem it our bounden duty in these trying times, in which our beloved and adopted country has been thrown into a state of civil war by the machinations of unscrupulous politicians—men who have tried their utmost to dissever this our adopted country for their own aggrandizement:

Resolved, That we, the laborers employed on the canals of this city, tender our heartfelt thanks to Maj.-Gen. BUTLER, for the kind interest he has taken in the laboring classes of New-Orleans by giving them employment, whereby they have been enabled to earn an honest living for their families, instead of being made dependent on charity, a thing unavoidable but for his timely arrival in this city, for otherwise we would have been reduced to a state of starvation, and we would have been compelled to join the so-called Confederate army or starve in a Confederate prison; compelled to fight against the only free Government on earth, where men of every clime have had a right hand of fellowship extended to them, and a cead mille failthe in this "land of the free and home of the brave," and at the same time we would express our grateful obligation to Maj.-Gen. BUTLER, for the services of Col. T. B. THORPE, who has, with so much consideration for our feelings and so faithfully, as our own Superintendent, carried out Gen. BUTLER's wishes.

It was an interesting sight to see these strong, rough men, clothed in their plain, substantial garb, illuminated by brilliant gaslight, standing beside the General and his Staff, they in turn contrasting strongly in their blue uniform and bright shoulder-straps, though all were alike in the bronze of the complexion, which spoke eloquently of out-door work.

The General listened to the resolutions with most profound interest, and was evidently deeply impressed with the spontaneous thanks offered him by these men, so recently, and yet I believe so thoroughly redeemed from the foul spirit of rebellion. He proceeded with much feeling to thank the workingmen of New-Orleans, and especially those engaged in the hard labor of clearing out the canals, for their sense of gratitude and patriotism which they showed in turning out in such numbers, so orderly and well-conducted. He alluded to the fact that the workingmen were the first to take the oath of allegiance to the United States after the entrance into the city of the forces under his command. He said that they had no property at stake to afford a selfish reason for them to do so; he believed that they were instigated by the sacred recollections clustering around the old flag, under the folds of which they had prospered, and that they were the first who willingly came forward to commence the number of 14,000 persons, who had, in New-Orleans, declared themselves to be true to the United States. He alluded to the public works of the city carried on under General Order No. 244; he said that the workingmen must not suppose that he, as the representative of the United States, would do anything to discourage labor; on the contrary, he would endeavor before he left this city to elevate labor to its proper sphere, and as he had always fought the battles of the poor man against the rich in his far distant home of the North, he did not intend now to remain quiet when such a field of usefulness was open before him, to prove that labor was, and of right should be, the most substantial blessing of a nation's prosperity. He expressed the hope that the time is not far distant in New-Orleans, when an honest day's work should secure an honest day's wages. He called to mind what the Scripture said, that "by the sweat of the brow shalt thou eat thy bread," and urged that because this was law of God, the laboring man should eat the best the land would yield to us.

He then spoke at some length on the present war, and said that its origin really lay in the struggle the rich have always carried on to oppress the poor, and that the effort had been attempted to form an aristocracy, which, if it were successful, would degrade the poor white laborer, even below his status in England, a country where the poor man had no friends. He implied that the poor man in the South had been forced to fight the battles of the rich, and that he believed that the day was not far distant when they would find out how they had been deceived, and fearful would be the retaliation. He repeatedly thanked the laborers for their demonstration, and pointed with pride to the flag they bore, and assured them that it was his desire to see the day arrive when the citizens of New-Orleans would prove themselves loyal enough to take the affairs of the City Government in their own hands, and that when such time did come, he would cheerfully march off his men to another field of duty. He alluded with satisfaction to the healthy condition of the city during the past Summer, and impressed it upon the minds of his hearers that what had been accomplished for the good of the city could be the work of civil as well as military rule. He also reminded them that a great responsibility rested on them, which was to jealously watch and see that all useful improvements were carried out, and by thus acting as became themselves as men, he had no doubt that New-Orleans would soon flourish as in days of yore.

At the conclusion of his remarks, which were made with evident emotion, Gen. BUTLER retired from the balcony, the air ringing with hearty cheers. The band struck up Hail Columbia, and with giving cheers, "three times three," the procession marched to the residence of Gen. SHEPLEY, when the Governor received the congratulations of the crowd with a graceful and telling speech, in which he stated he had always cordially sustained the Commanding General in his determination to elevate the working man, and ameliorate his condition. Col. DEMING was then called for, who addressed what had now grown into a vast concourse of people. The Colonel stated that as Mayor of the City, he would do all in his power to sustain its interests, and protect its citizens from the fearful effects of the rebellion. The Colonel was greeted in turn with three hearty cheers, when the procession, with quick step, inspired by a lively tune, turned down Camp-street to the Park Hotel, where was serenaded Col. THORPE, and then, still bearing the flag before them, the procession proceeded to their headquarters, and at not an unusually late hour, quietly dispersed. The whole affair was well got up, and well carried out, and what made it more particularly grateful, is the fact that it was the spontaneous effusion of these hard-working, and evidently warm-hearted adopted citizens of the United States residing in New-Orleans.

In this connection I should mention, as an event of New-Orleans life, that on Tuesday evening last a number of distinguished civilians gave to Gen. WEITZEL a complimentary dinner, it being understood that he is about departing, with his brigade, up the river, on active service. There were present, as invited guests, many of our most prominent military officers. Gen. BUTLER excused himself on the ground of a review of one or two of his newly formed volunteer regiments. New-Orleans was always famous for people who know how to dine—a rare accomplishment, by the way—and there is something in the atmosphere and the wine that makes the guests cheerful, and, if called on to speak, apt and eloquent. Among the persons "called out" were several notables who did themselves great honor; among whom I should mention Mayor Col. DEMING. He commenced his remarks by severely condemning speech-making at dinners, and then set the bad example (according to his theory) of making a most eloquent speech. It will be long before I shall forget his remarks, as Mayor of the Crescent City, upon the past, present and future of New-Orleans. The toast, "The Navy," was replied to by Capt. LOWRY, of the gunboat Sciota. In his remarks he alluded to the harmony that had always existed in the Department of the Gulf between the military and naval forces of the Government, and in his attempt to do justice to the navy, he incidentally alluded to the fight at the forts, and, unconsciously perhaps to himself, got off some eloquent passages that I never heard surpassed. This was particularly the case in his description of the Brooklyn, on board of which he was First Lieutenant. He alluded to the glaring light the fire rafts cast over our gallant fleet, spoke of their confusing light, as they came crushing and cracking against our vessels, to be quietly seized by our tars and towed away where they might burn up in safety. He spoke of the charge of the Brooklyn between the fires of both forts when the noble old ship for twenty minutes fought Jackson and St. Philip, broadside and broadside, pouring out her thunder and her iron hail upon the contending forts, enveloped the while in the smoke of her own guns and the fire-rafts. He then alluded to the gallant vessel, as if alive to the importance of her mission, moving grandly on, passing the fearful ordeal, and coming out a victor in the strife. The immediate struggle over, Capt. LOWRY said he looked across the decks and twelve men lay extended in death, thirty were wounded, and the remaining crew were stripped naked to their waists, having torn off their shirts as incumbrances in the fight. There stood our gallant tars, begrimed with powder and stained with blood, their eyes dilated with anger, and ready as so many disciplined tigers, to again spring into the jaws of death, and die for the honor of their flag and their country.

In front of the city, in the midst of our fleet of ships and gunboats, is the British vessel of war, the Rinaldo, famous for carrying SLIDELL and MASON to Nassau. When the evening comes, and the levée is crowded with our citizens, the officers of this piratical craft amuse themselves and insult our ships and the people ashore by playing the "Bonny blue flag," the supposed national air of the rebel States. There is also occasionally flying in some part of the rigging a bit of bunting, made as nearly like the Confederate rag as possible. It is also understood, that when ladies visit this vessel, they are generally selected for their secesh proclivities, and that the United States, President LINCOLN and Gen. BUTLER come in for all sorts of vulgar abuse. It is, perhaps, a small matter, but it shows the spirit of these British officers and the forbearance of our Government. I trust that when we settle our own little domestic affairs, we will have the disposition, as we have the power, to make Great Britain learn good manners, if we cannot teach her honesty. I would say, by the way, that the officers of the Rinaldo speak of SLIDELL as that "blasted feller that won all their money at cards, you see."

OUR IRON-CLADS.

An Iron-Clad Tried and Reported Ready for Sea—The Keokuk Finished.

A naval officer has been good enough to send us a report of the trial trip of the United States iron-clad frigate Chilicothe, which has been finished, manned, and sent to sea on her first trial trip within the past two days. The vessel left the wharf at Jeffersonville, in compliance with orders from headquarters, for a trial trip of 72 hours, on which her machinery and armament were to be tested. The latter consisted of two tremendous 11-inch guns. Having got down the river firing commenced at various distances, from 100 to over a thousand yards. The result may be summed up thus in a paragraph: There was no unusual recoil, no shaking of decks, no bursting of turrets, or giving way of gun-gear. The experiments with ordnance were, in short, successful in every sense, and the consequence is that the Navy Department is to be informed to-morrow (26th) that the Chilicothe is ready for any service to which she may be ordered on this coast. The machinery worked very satisfactorily, giving the ship a speed of eight miles an hour, or two miles more than that specified in the contract. The Chilicothe is one of the "Ohio River Iron-clads," and was built at Cincinnati by BROWN, McCORD & JAWORN. She is 158 feet long, 50 feet wide, and 5½ feet deep. Her armor is put on in plates—on the deck one inch, on the sides two inches thick. She has two engines with cylinders 22 inches in diameter and 4 feet stroke. The machinery was built at St. Louis. The Chilicothe is now in commission, and will soon be actively employed.

COMPLETION OF THE GREAT IRON VESSEL KEOKUK.

The tremendous iron vessel Keokuk (formerly the Moodna,) is now almost finished, and her launch is announced to come off on the 15th prox. Preparations for putting her afloat will begin to-morrow. This is the most extraordinary looking craft in the world. She resembles two small boats turned down on each other. She is oval-shaped in the hull. The machinery will be carried entirely below water. There is no woodwork whatever, save in the cabins. A propeller in the stern will move her. There was no keel laid in the centre of this queer-looking craft, but one at the end and another at the stern, both of which extended toward the middle of the hull about 16 feet. A seven-feet ram protrudes from the bow. It is of cast-iron throughout, and bears a resemblance to the rams in the Monitors. When in the water the Keokuk will present the most singular appearance of any ship heard of up to this. The principle of her construction it is not deemed advisable to publish just now. The ordnance authorities are preparing a battery for her, of which also a minute description would be contraband.

—Capt. Benham, of the regular army, formerly Brigadier-General of volunteers, of which rank he was deprived as punishment for his share of the responsibility attaching to the disaster at James Island, passed through Manchester, N. H., on Tuesday last, en route for Portsmouth, whither he has been ordered to superintend the construction of Fort Constitution.

GENERAL ORDER.

Report of Committee on Assessments in favor of adopting resolution that the Comptroller be directed to draw his warrant in favor of the Clerk of Arrears for the sum of $445 18, for the purpose of to obtaining renewals of some of the drafts, and in attempts to effect a compromise with the holders of the Rennie drafts. But the evidence has failed to sustain any of these allegations. Indeed, I feel justified in saying that I am fully satisfied that Sturgis, Shaw & Co. have, so far as the evidence shows, dealt fairly, honestly and honorably with the plaintiffs, and have not justly and honorably with the plaintiffs, and have not sought to deprive them of any of their rights, or to defeat any of their lawful suits. The compromise which they desired to effect with the holders of the Rennie drafts was honorable and just. It recognised the trust fund, and sought to apply it equally to those who in equity were entitled to it. It was within the power of Sturgis, Shaw & Co. to have deprived the plaintiffs and other holders of the Rennie drafts of this property, by a sale or assignment for the benefit of creditors; but they desired to prevent their general creditors from partaking of it, and to devote it to creditors who had an equitable lien upon it.

It is claimed that the suit brought by Sheidt, and the appointment of a Receiver thereon, was collusive between the parties, was a fraud upon the rights of the plaintiffs, and was instituted for the purpose of defeating the lien of the plaintiffs' attachments. So far as there is any question of fact involved in these allegations, I have not had any difficulty in finding against the plaintiffs. I entertain no doubt that the object of the suit was to carry out compulsorily what Sturgis, Shaw & Co. had failed to obtain through the compromise paper, and to distribute, by the judgment of the Court, the consigned property to and among the holders of the Rennie drafts.

It is quite immaterial that this suit was instigated by Sturgis, Shaw & Co.; the evidence as to that is slight, and perhaps not sufficient to justify such conclusion. They could have interpleaded between their creditors, the holders of the Rennie drafts, and their general creditors, in respect to this property; and I see no reason why they could not have made a special assignment of the trust property to pay the Rennie creditors. If so, then why not institute an action in the name (of one of those creditors to obtain the same end? As has been already said, the relief demanded by the plaintiffs in this action, and that sought in the Scheidt suit, is the same; and except so far as the plaintiffs may have acquired some preference or priority through their attachments, they could have obtained all they otherwise ask for, by coming in and becoming a party to the Scheidt suit.

In this view, I am of opinion that the institution of the Scheidt suit, and the appointment of a Receiver therein, of the consigned property and mortgage, furnished no reason for the interference of a Court of Equity, and does not, per se, defeat or deprive the plaintiffs of any lien or right acquired by force of their attachments.

The main question therefore is, did the plaintiffs by their attachments and the levy thereof, and the certificate given to the Sheriff by Sturgis, Shaw & Co., acquire any lien upon, or preference or priority of payment out of the consigned goods and mortgage, which enables the plaintiffs to demand the judgment of this Court in aid of his judgments and executions at law?

The goods consigned, and mortgage executed by Rennie to Sturgis, Shaw & Co., were held as security for advances made and for the payment of any ultimate debt from Rennie to them. This, therefore, was a bailment and not a purchase. The bailees in this case had a lien upon the consigned goods and mortgage to the extent of any indebtedness of Rennie to them. It was somewhat urged at the trial, that the outstanding acceptances of Sturgis, Shaw & Co. did not constitute such a debt as would authorize them to retain those goods as against the creditors of Rennie. There is no force in this; so long as the liability of Sturgis, Shaw & Co. continued to the holders of their acceptances, their right to and lien upon the consigned property remained.

At the time of the service of the attachments, the unpaid acceptances of Sturgis, Shaw & Co. amounted to about $200,000, and they had in their possession about $65,000 of consigned property and a mortgage for $150,000, upon which they had borrowed $30,000.

The attachments were served on Sturgis, Shaw & Co. on the several days upon which they were issued, by leaving a copy with them certified by the Sheriff. No levy upon any property appears to have been made at that time, but a certificate, under section 236 of the Code, was demanded. Sturgis, Shaw & Co. accordingly certified to the Sheriff that they did not at the time of the service of the attachment, nor at any time since, nor did they then, hold any property in their possession, or under their control, for the benefit of Robert Rennie, nor was there any debt owing by them to Robert Rennie.

That Sturgis, Shaw & Co. were not mistaken in regard to the legal title to the property consigned by Rennie to them, cannot be pretended. They undoubtedly supposed that, having advanced to Rennie much beyond the value of the goods, his interest in them had ceased; such, practically, was the effect, but until the goods were disposed of by Sturgis, Shaw & Co., the legal title to them remained in Rennie; Sturgis, Shaw & Co. had their lien, could sell at pleasure and give a good title to the purchase, but Rennie owned the goods, subject to this lien and right of his factors. Commission merchants, as a class of factors making advances to nearly or quite the value of the goods, are treated as the owners. (Story on Agency, §111.) They sell in their own name, and deal with the property in every respect as if it were their own. Still they have but a special property in the goods, the general property remaining in the principal. I think it is clear, therefore, that at the time of the service of the attachment Sturgis, Shaw & Co. had property in their possession belonging to Rennie, upon which they, as factors, had a subsisting lien to its full value; rendering the interest of Rennie in it of no value whatever. For the reasons stated, the certificates given by Sturgis, Shaw & Co. to the Sheriff were literally and technically untrue, but I cannot find from any of the proof in the case that they were given with any fraudulent or dishonest design, or with intent to hinder, delay or obstruct the plaintiffs in the pursuit of their remedies under their attachments.

The technical falsity of these certificates, without a knowledge of the value of the consigned property and the extent of the factors lien, may have well induced the suspicion that there might have been some fraudulent motive. But the fact is now thoroughly established, that the advances far exceeded the value of the goods, and that the interest of Rennie was in reality nothing whatever. If Sturgis, Shaw & Co. had certified that they had in their possession goods of Rennie of the value of $65,000, upon which they had a lien for $230,000, they would have complied strictly with the law, but no one can say that the plaintiffs would have gained any consolation from such a certificate. I am warranted, I think, in saying that the certificate which they did give was not given through any corrupt design or intent to injure the plaintiffs, but through a mistaken notion of their interest in the goods.

It is claimed, however, by the plaintiffs, and herein lies the strength of their action, that the giving of this technically untrue certificate was a waiver by Sturgis, Shaw & Co. of their lien as factors upon the goods. If this were so, it might be that the lien of the attachments would be prior and superior to the title acquired by the Receiver, and a Court of Equity might enforce such priority in aid of judgments and executions at law. It is clear, I think, that such would not be the effect of it. The learned Chief-Justice, when this case was before the General Term upon an appeal from an order denying a motion for a Receiver, said: "It is not easy to see how the giving of that certificate can effect rights which had previously accrued to third persons who had no agency or participation in that act;" and I understood it to have been conceded at the trial, that the creditors holding the acceptances of Sturgis, Shaw & Co., constituting their lien, had an equitable right to the consigned property. I assume this to be so, and for the purposes of this action, it is a complete answer to the plaintiff's demand for relief. Such equitable right could not be divested by any act of Sturgis, Shaw & Co., which, as between them and their general creditors, might operate as a waiver of their lien.

But, assuming this not to be so, have Sturgis, Shaw & Co. in effect waived or lost their lien by giving to the Sheriff a certificate that they had not any property in their possession belonging to Robert Rennie?

I know of no elementary law, or adjudicated case, in which such an act has been declared or held to be a waiver of the factor's lien. The most that can be said is, that the denial of Sturgis, Shaw & Co., that they had any property of Rennie might operate as an estoppel on them. The elementary treatises and cases to which I am referred by the plaintiffs' counsel, merely establish the general principles that a claim by a factor inconsistent with his actual right, may work a waiver of his lien. I do not regard the certificate given to the Sheriff as setting up any claim to the goods incompatible with the right of Sturgis, Shaw & Co. They say they hold no property "for the benefit of Rennie." This in one sense was true. They held the property for the benefit of Rennie's creditors, who had an equitable right to its application to the acceptances held by them.

In the absence of all fraudulent design, under a not unnatural misconception of the nature of the rights and intetests in the property, and with a desire to have it distributed among the holders of the Rennie drafts, I cannot attach so grave importance to an act, harmless in itself, as to give it the effect of a waiver of their lien.

The section of the code which provides for the giving of a certificate (§236) also provides that "if the individual refuse to do so, he may be required by the Court to attend and be examined concerning the same," and it has been held that where a party served with an attachment certifies he has no property, it may be regarded as a refusal to give the certificate, if it can be satisfactorily established that the certificate is untrue (Carroll vs. Finley, 26 Barb. 61.) This remedy could have been pursued by the plaintiffs, and the nature of Sturgis, Shaw & Co.'s interest in the consigned property ascertained in a much more summary and economical mode than the one they had adopted in this action.

Upon a careful examination of all the questions raised by counsel, with the aid of the evidence in the case, I cannot bring my mind to any result favorable to the plaintiffs. Sturgis, Shaw & Co. do not seem to me to have lost their lien, and the right of the receiver to hold the property as against the plaintiffs in this action is unaffected.

As this view disposes of all the equity of the plaintiffs' complaint, the defendants must have judgment dismissing the complaint, with costs.

MONDAY, Nov. 3—A. M.

The Foreign Trade of the past week was again very heavy in the Export clearances of Domestic Produce, the total value being five millions of dollars—the second week in succession in which this large figure was made. On the other hand, the Export of Specie fell off to less than one-fourth the amount cleared the previous week and the week before that. The Import entries have also fallen off, and we look for a moderate business, compared with September and October, throughout the present month. The Customs Duties of the week were $628,000, against $908,000 the week before. The price of Custom House Notes left off on Saturday 125¾@126 ₱ cent. The price of Gold, after selling a fraction below 130, recovered at the close to 130¼@130⅜ ₱ cent. The stock of Gold in Bank partially increased during the week, owing to the very light export demand, and the average this afternoon will probably show nearly thirty-eight millions. The exact amount reported on Saturday is $88,158,000, with a California arrival to be added to-day. A further addition has been made to the line of Loans and Discounts, principally on United States Treasury Certificates of Indebtedness, 12 months to run, as these come into market from Government contractors. The line of Deposits at the close of the week shows a total of $168,502,000, the heaviest sum ever yet reported. The average of the week will probably show about $167,000,000, as against $164,497,000 last Monday. The increase at the close of the week was quite rapid, and the price of Money on the Street to the Brokers, 5 ₱ cent. as the rule, with exceptions as low as 4 ₱ cent. on select, and as high as 6 ₱ cent. on miscellaneous collateral. Of the latter, the amount now carried by the Brokers is believed to have increased on the Street, particularly of some of the Railway Shares and Bonds, which have of late been so rapidly advanced by speculation at the Stock Exchange as to induce a good many outside holders to realize. At the same time, the general strength of the Stock Market is such that nearly every moderate decline in prices tends to bring forward fresh buying for the rise, so that the signs of any very important decline are not implicitly relied upon by parties disposed to speculate against the market. The Public Funds of the United States have improved 1 ₱ cent. within a few days, partly from a better disposition among buyers to turn their attention to this class of investment, and partly from the moderate amounts brought upon the Exchange for sale. In addition to this, the condition of the Public Debt and the resources for its support in the way of Customs revenue and the prospective heavy yield of the Tax Bill, are beginning to be more generally appreciated. The transactions in Gold, and the number of parties speculating in it, have greatly fallen off since its exclusion from the Stock Exchange Board. The course of Exchange on London is also less violently influenced. The rate left off 144@144½ ₱ cent. The receipts of agricultural Produce from the West continue moderate, from the recent temporary interruption in Canal navigation. This, however, does not materially affect Flour and Provisions, the movement of which by rail is greater than was ever known at this season of the year, stimulated by the growing export demand for Flour, Butter, Lard, Cheese, &c. The receipts of Cotton from the Southwest since last Monday, are 2,611 bales against 4,103 bales the previous week.

The guerrilla raids upon the Mississippi River, both below and above Memphis, have interrupted the movement; but we notice that Gen. SHERMAN, in command at that post, has given notice that he will afford a gunboat convoy to all Cotton-laden vessels, on proper application. The last news from Liverpool quotes a heavy decline, equal to five cents the pound, (at the present Exchange,) in consequence of the receipt of about 28,000 bales from India, and advices of certain American cargoes being at sea. Our own next return of Exports will show larger clearances of Cotton than the last. A cargo of 1,082 bales was cleared a few days ago, for Liverpool, by the ship Athena, and other sailing ships and steamers have taken moderate parcels. The clearances of Breadstuffs and Provisions show no abatement. The Brazil trade, which, before the civil war, could only be supplied, it was thought, from the Richmond City Mills of Gallego and Haxall, is now taking a large amount of St. Louis and Extra Ohio and Genesee Flour. This revolution, on a smaller scale, is no less significant of the permanent injury to the trade of the Southern States by their rebellion, than the enhanced competition in Cotton from the East Indies, China, as well as Bombay.

The Import entries of the past week, including the Dry Goods return in our last paper, amount to $2,903,575, against $2,244,130 same week last season. The Export clearances of Domestic Produce amount to $5,005,026, against $2,803,949 same week in 1861. The Export of Specie is $351,000.

The tables of the Foreign Trade at New-York, published a few days since, make the Import entries, exclusive of Specie, for nine months of the calendar year:

The speculation of the week on the Railway Shares was active, but prices generally wavering, and at the close about 2 per cent. lower than on Saturday week. The difference in Erie old Shares is only 1¼ per cent., though the fall in the meantime was equal to 2½ per cent. The movement in this Stock now attracts the speculative attention heretofore shown to New-York Central, affording, since the latter rose above par, a wider field for buyers and sellers upon the mere ups and downs of the market. The shares of the Hudson River constitute a notable exception to the general decline, having suddenly gone up from 70½ to 79¾ ₱ cent., and closing 76¼ ₱ cent. There is some talk of a scrip dividend, (a distribution of new shares,) at the close of the year, by way of representing the new City dépôt on lower Broadway, purchased by the Company, and raising the capital to the even sum of $4,000,000. To do this, the scrip dividend must be about 6 ₱ cent. But no official intimation has yet been given of such a dividend. The Chicago, Burlington and Quincy shares have also gone up rapidly on the official announcement that the capital would be raised one fifth by a distribution of 20 ₱ cent. new stock, to represent the purchases made of the Northern Cross and other connecting lines. The Company also give a cash dividend of 4 ₱ cent., free of the income tax. The Railway Bonds have been moderately steady. The Government stocks advancing. A recovery of 5 ₱ cent. in Pacific Mail, and a further rise of 3 ₱ cent. on Panama are noted. The Railway shares closed heavy on Saturday afternoon.

The following bids were made on Saturday for the Bank Shares. The State Bank has made a half-yearly dividend of 3 ₱ cent.; the Nassau 3½ ₱ cent.

These are filled at from 17c. to 22c. according to quality; only a few have brought over 20c. during the week. Should foreign exchange keep above 130 (it is now 145) the export demand will keep up, at least so long as hops can be bought at or quite near present quotations."

LEATHER—The business of the week, Messrs. Weibel & Weidemeyer review thus: Hemlock Sole—The demand is lively and general, at rising prices for most descriptions. A considerable portion of the leather now being received from tanneries had been previously sold for arrival. Some of the trade refuse to sell large parcels at current rates, and the stocks of others are much reduced. Good heavy and middle weights continue very scarce: light leather engages more attention among buyers than hitherto. Oak Sole—Receipts from tanneries for some time past were quite light. NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

Our advices from the Army of the Potomac this morning are highly important, and explain the heavy cannonading spoken of in our dispatches yesterday. Gen. Pleasanton came up with the enemy's cavalry and artillery at Philimont, about 11 o'clock in the forenoon, and engaged them. The fight was conducted wholly by artillery, and lasted about five hours, when the rebels retreated to Union, a small town three miles beyond. Our loss in this affair was but one man killed, and fourteen wounded. Yesterday morning, Gen. Pleasanton renewed his attack at Union, and being soon afterward reinforced by a brigade of infantry, at 1 o'clock the rebels again fell back, and our forces occupied Union. In the afternoon, the firing in that direction was very heavy until dark, but no further results are known. A heavy dust was observed at Ashby's Gap yesterday, indicating a movement of some kind by the rebels, but in what direction could not be ascertained. Another portion of our army took possession of Snicker's Gap yesterday, and some firing was heard there in the afternoon, following the movement of a rebel force along the west side of the mountain, but what it amounted to we have not yet heard.

We learn from our special correspondent at Centreville, that a train of cars on the Orange and Alexandria Railroad was captured by the rebels on Friday, this side of Manassas Junction, where it had been to carry a party of workmen engaged in making repairs on the road. The track was torn up by the rebels, and the train thrown off the track. Sixty workmen were captured, together with thirty soldiers belonging to the Fifty-eighth New-York Volunteers, detailed as a guard.

An expedition from Marshfield, Mo., last week succeeded in routing and scattering a party of 200 rebels eight miles from that place, killing and wounding a number, and capturing 27 prisoners, including a captain, a number of horses, small arms, &c.

We have a rumor by way of Corinth, that Mobile has been captured. The report was brought in by rebel prisoners taken by our scouts. It is well known that our forces in the Gulf have been preparing for an attack upon Mobile, and there is no reason why the report should not be true.

We give this morning a list of eight additional vessels known to have been captured by the rebel pirate Alabama, or "290," six of which were burned, and the other two released under heavy bonds. The intelligence of these captures was brought to Boston by the brig Baron de Castine, one of the released vessels, which was captured while on a voyage from Bangor to Cardenas.

By the arrival at this port of the steamers Matanzas and Creole, we receive advices from New-Orleans to the 25th ult., inclusive. We find in the Delta of the 23d a brief account of the expedition which captured Sabine Pass, of which we have already received some intelligence from the rebels. This affair was a most brilliant one throughout, reflecting great credit upon all engaged in it—excepting the rebels. The vessels engaged were the United States steamer Kensington, Acting Master Crocker commanding; the United States schooner packet Seaman, and the bomb-schooner Jonas, Capt. Pennington. The expedition, within fifteen days, captured one fort and two camps, and burned thirty buildings used as barracks and storehouses, containing a large amount of ammunition and provisions. It also captured four schooners, two sloops and one steamer, besides quite a number of sunken vessels, which were were burnt. The aggregate number of persons who have taken the oath of allegiance in New-Orleans is about 66,000.

The United States steam transport United States, which arrived on Saturday night, from Port Royal on the 29th ult., brings the report that just before she sailed a rumor was prevalent that the Savannah ram was coming down the river.

Wm. Wood, Superintendent of the Old Capitol Prison, who went South not long since with the rebels, who had been prisoners in his charge, to exchange them, returned to Washington on Saturday, but without the loyal men held as prisoners by the rebels, whom he was expected to bring back with him. It is, however, understood that his mission was completely successful, and that those he went after will soon follow him, the order for their release having been given before he left Richmond.

The Wheeling Intelligencer learns from a gentleman who arrived there on Thursday, from Jackson County, that the rebels under Jenkins have repossessed the town of Ripley, and are spreading themselves all over the surrounding country. It is also ascertained that the rebels under Gen. Loring, having been reinforced by Gen. Floyd, have returned to Charleston, Kanawha, and intend to make a stand there.

Gen. Stanley, who commands a division of the army, near Corinth, made an address to his soldiers, a few days ago, in which he said: "Remember that we are solving with our bayonets one of the great questions of history—the domination of caste; the question whether a cruel oligarchy, who, forgetful of that simple and sublime command of our Savior, 'Love thy neighbor as thyself,' claims the right to live upon the unrequited labor of his neighbors, shall rule and dictate the destinies of our country."

GENERAL NEWS.

By the arrival at this port of the steamship Edinburgh, we have advices from Europe to the 16th ult., and the Arabia at Halifax brings us intelligence three days later still—to the 19th. It was reported by the Spezzia correspondent of the London Daily News that two rebel privateers were in the Mediterranean, and that they had already destroyed a dozen American vessels, but the impression was that the report grew out of the raid of the "290" among the whalers off the Western Isles. American affairs were being very generally discussed by the British Press, and the howl for recognition was almost universal among them, Mr. Gladstone's views being very generally indorsed. Lord Palmerston had been making several [illegible] in Whitehaven, but he carefully abstained from any allusion to American affairs. M. Thouvenel, the French Foreign Minister, had resigned, and Baron De L'Huys had been appointed his successor. There were rumors of further changes, but nothing definite. There is nothing else of special importance from the Continent. The sales of cotton in the Liverpool market for the week had been only 15,500 bales, and the market closed dull and nominal, at a decline of 1d.@2d., under heavy arrivals from India. Breadstuffs and provisions were both declining. Consols were quoted at 93¼ for money.

The steamship Ocean Queen arrived at this port yesterday, from Aspinwall, on the 25th ult. She brings the mails, passengers and treasure—over a million—from California. Interesting details of news from the United States of Colombia, and Central and South America, are given in our special correspondence. Full confirmation of the news of the triumph of Mosquera and the Reactionists had reached Panama. In Panama, the difficulties between the Church and State, growing out of the Mosquera Mortmain decree, had been temporarily settled, and the churches had been reopened. The attempt at fusion in the five States of Central America had failed, and there was a prospect that active hostilities would soon break out among them. The Nicaragua Transit Company apprehended trouble in the conveyance of passengers across that country. From the South American States the news is not specially important. A conspiracy to overthrow the Government in Ecuador had been discovered and frustrated.

At a great meeting of merchants held, on Saturday afternoon, in the Produce Exchange, a resolution was presented nominating Gen. Hiram Walbridge as the National Democratic Union Republican candidate for the next Congress, in the Fourth District. The resolution was received with acclamation, and Gen. Walbridge proceeded to deliver an address which excited the greatest enthusiasm. In the course of his remarks, he reproduced many documents shedding new light upon the inner history of the war, and placing his own patriotic services in brilliant relief. When he had concluded, Gen. Ezra Nye formally nominated the speaker, subject to the approval of the constituency, and the General having put the question himself, his nomination was unanimously ratified and vociferously applauded. During the evening, the new candidate spoke at no less than six different stations in his District, to immense crowds, the meeting at the Fifth Ward Hotel being especially successful and enthusiastic.

Rev. Dr. Cheever preached last night to a congregation which nearly filled the Church of the Puritans, a vehement discourse, in which he objected to the President's Proclamation of Emancipation, as coming too late, and as being partial, in that it assured to loyal slaveowners protection, and instead of proclaiming unconditional emancipation, promised to take back even rebels, Slavery and all, if they would come before the 1st of January.

On Saturday night, Hon Cassius M. Clay and Geo. F. Train met at the Cooper Institute, and discussed, in the presence of a large audience, the question of Slavery. The audience was uproarious and enthusiastic, the discussion personal and discursive. Our report was crowded over from Saturday's issue, and the matter is now with the things of the past.

The Board of Aldermen met at 1 o'clock on Saturday afternoon. The name of William E. Dodge, for Street Commissioner, was rejected by 7 to 5. The Comptroller reported that, from the 25th to the close of October, the receipts into the City Treasury amounted to $759,926 28, and the expenditures to $152,458 39, leaving a balance on hand at the beginning of November amounting to $2,369,512 58. The Board concurred in the amendment made by the Councilmen to the resolution directing the taking up and relaying of the Fifth-avenue mains, and which specifies that the work shall be done, "provided" the Croton Board do it by contract, in the manner laid down in the Charter. The "provided" is a condition made to debar the Croton Board from exercising in this case the privilege given them by the Legislature of 1860—to do aqueduct work by the day, if they choose, in cases where the Common Council have ordered it to be contracted for. The Board adjourned till 1 o'clock on Monday afternoon.

The Board of Councilmen met at two o'clock on Saturday afternoon. The only important business transacted was the adoption of a preamble and resolution by Mr. Webster—that other cities having secured their quotas of troops by offering unusually attractive bounties, and New York being behindhand in raising her quota, the Committee on National Affairs are instructed to "report upon the expediency of increasing the municipal bounty of $50 to $200," in order to avoid a draft. The Board adjourned till next Thursday afternoon at five o'clock.

It has been stated that the pirate steamer 290, derived its name from the fact that 290 English merchants subscribed to the funds with which it was built. The Richmond Dispatch, however, says: The origin of the name of the 290 is this: By a regulation of the Admiralty, all the English ship builders number the ships constructed at their respective yards, previous to their being named, which is usually done at the launching. The 290 was the 290th ship built at that particular yard, and, being designed for foreign owners, she kept her number in lieu of a name.

A company of pearl-divers, with their machinery, will go from Panama to Manzanillo in November, to dive for the gold of the Golden Gate. Others, from San Francisco, will go there for the same purpose; and still another party, from New-York, passed through Panama to get the wrecked gold, week before last. Work, on account of the surf, cannot be begun until December.

At the present price of cotton duck, a suit of sails for a ship of 1,000 tons would cost not less $5,500, not including bolt-rope manufacture, &c., reckoning 7,500 yards for the suit, at an average price of 75 cents per yard. For a ship of 1,000 tons No. 3 duck is used, which weighs one pound to the yard, a fact that will give some adequate idea of the amount of cotton used, as well as the weight of a suit of sails.

The Stock market, on Saturday, left off dull and lower on the Railways; steady on Governments. Gold 130¼@130⅜; Exchange 144@144½ ₱ cent.

Flour was dull and heavy, and lower on Saturday. Wheat was in fair demand, but at irregular rates. Corn was in good request, and sound lots were dearer. A fair business was transacted in Cotton, Coffee, Fish, Fruit, Hay, Hops, Pork, Butter, Cheese, Tallow, Tobacco and Wool at former quotations. Beef, Lard, Tobacco and Whisky were in less demand, and were less buoyant. The freight market was inactive.

More Rebel Privateering.—It is a sickening record we have, to-day, of the continued depredations of the rebel privateer Alabama, on American Commerce. Eight more vessels have fallen into her power, and six of the number have been destroyed. And her ability seems quite as great to capture or sink eighty as eight and the impunity as perfect. Merchantmen are helpless; they have not the speed to escape a steamer, nor the power and to fight. They can only surrender, be pillaged burned. In this kind of warfare, the odds are a thousand to one against us. The rebels have comparatively no commerce afloat; whilst every sea is white with ours. When they let fly a privateer, it is like sending a hawk into a flock of barn-yard fowls, or turning a wolf into a sheep-cote. The only business is to slay and eat.

We might try to stir up the Navy Department to a realizing sense of the shame and frightful cost of these disasters; and we do most earnestly urge upon the Department to do all that is possible in the premises. In the light of the terrible facts which are now so frequently brought to us from Europe, and the more terrible ones which may justly be feared, we implore it for activity. To suffer our commerce to be destroyed at this juncture, is to suffer our country to be destroyed. We have two or three fast steamships, some of them public and others private property, which, under bold and daring Captains, would certainly chase from the seas or at least from the highways of commerce, this rebel privateer. Each day's delay may cost us hundreds of thousands of dollars. New-York is deeply stirred in this matter; and, in behalf of its overshadowing commercial interests—not to speak of the honor of the nation—we hope that every energy of the Navy Department will at once be brought into play.

The State Election.

Within the last ten days the Union cause has made rapid and immense progress in every section of the State. There is not a county of which this is not strictly and literally true. At the outset of the canvass the Union men, exhausted by their constant and energetic efforts in raising volunteers for the war, came slowly up to the work. They were unquestionably surpassed by the Seymour men who had been lying back for this political campaign, and who opened it with great vigor and energy, and with great confidence of success. They have had, moreover, the aid of the Liquor Dealers' Association, who have perfected their organization, raised large amounts of money, and resolved, in State convention, to pay no attention to the political affairs of the country, but to devote themselves wholly to their personal interests as sellers of rum.

As soon, however, as the loyal men of the State perceived the real drift of affairs, and that the cause of the Union was in danger of being betrayed to rebels and traitors through their inactivity, they rallied with vigor and energy, and have completely turned the political tide. In every county and town their organization has been perfected; they have made a complete and thorough canvass, bringing the issues involved in the election close home to every voter, and pushing forward the good cause with the same energy which marked their exertions in support of the war.

In spite of the great excess of Republican voters who have volunteered for the war, and in spite of the utmost efforts of the Seymour men and the liquor dealers, to throw this State into the scale of the rebellion as against the Government, we believe it to be safe for Wadsworth by from 15,000 to 25,000 majority. If the canvass could go on for ten days longer, this could easily be made 50,000. All that is necessary now to insure success, is for the Union men to see to it that every legal voter goes to the polls. Let there be no failure in this, anywhere!

"The People's Union."

In such political emergencies as the present, designing demagogues are quite certain to prostitute popular names to the promotion of their selfish ends; and it becomes especially incumbent on all loyal citizens to see to it that they are not misled by these tricks of unscrupulous factionists.

In the call of the Union State Convention, and of the various local Conventions for the nomination of Union candidates, the Republicans and Union men have acted together. Special pains were taken to secure to both a perfectly just and fair representation in all these Conventions, and the nominations that have been made do represent the actual preferences of the great body of both these parties, as nearly as those preferences can ever be arrived at. As a matter of course, individual aspirants have been disappointed in some cases, and designing intriguers, who had special political purposes to serve, have been foiled. Acting upon their resentments, and anxious to ruin where they fail to rule, these men have set on foot machinery by which they hope to defeat the Union candidates in districts which they failed to control.

The "People's Union," as it is called, seems to be an organization of this sort. The men who figure as its leaders took part in the Republican or Union movement until they failed to carry out their schemes,—and then formed this new organization to secure revenge. We infer this from the fact that they have made factious nominations of third candidates for almost every local office for which they did not themselves secure or control the nomination. They are backing up the nomination of Mr. Blunt in the Sixth Congressional District, for no other purpose than to defeat Mr. Conkling. In a card published yesterday they confess that the object of nominating Mr. Blunt originally by an independent and wholly unauthorized movement, was to force him upon the other parties. In that card they say:

"Mr. Blunt being waited upon by a committee, and asked if he would accept the nomination, and run under any circumstances, replied that he would. Up to this time no other nomination for Congress had been made in the District, and it was supposed that this expression of feeling on the part of the people would have caused the adoption of Mr. Blunt by the Republicans, he having always affiliated with that party. But notwithstanding Mr. Blunt's nomination and acceptance, and his expressed determination to run; notwithstanding he had been posted and advertised as such candidate, when the Republican Convention did meet, Mr. Frederick A. Conkling was nominated—and immediately, in a lengthy speech, accepted the nomination and declared his intention to run."

The Convention by which Mr. Conkling was nominated was composed of delegates elected by the Union men, as well as Republicans, and was, in every sense, the just and true representative of both these parties. Finding that their project of forcing Mr. Blunt upon them as a candidate had thus failed, the "People's Union" are now running him to defeat his successful competitor.

They are pursuing the same course in the Assembly Districts, where Republican and Union candidates were likely to be elected. In the Seventh District they are running Dr. E. V. Price, an employe of the Comptroller's office, for the purpose of defeating Mr. Stewart, the regular candidate. In the Fifth District, they are also running a candidate against Mr. Brady, and in the Ninth they have made a nomination for the purpose of defeating Mr. Van Vorst. Whatever action they take anywhere seems to aim at the defeat of the regular Republican and Union nominees and the election of their Seymourite opponents. This, of itself, sufficiently stamps the character of the movement, and shows that it is either secretly in sympathy with the secession managers, or what is practically the same thing, that it makes the Union cause subordinate and subservient to the gratification of its personal and factious resentments.

We trust the loyal and well-disposed electors will be on their guard against these mischievous and malevolent designs. Let them see to it that their votes are cast so as to secure the election of Union men, and this can be done only by giving them to the regular nominees of the Republican and Union parties.

Financial Hazards of Tuesday's Election.

On Saturday last, a poll was kept at certain business places down town, where bankers and capitalists congregate, with the view of finding how the canvass is going in such classes between Wadsworth and Seymour. To the surprise of those initiating the test, it was found that eighteen-twentieths were going for Wadsworth!

And we doubt not this fact will create very general surprise; for the idea has got abroad in some way that the Money-Bags of New-York are strongly tinctured with secession sympathy. But a little reflection will explain the error of this view. Omitting all considerations of patriotism in the matter, there is enough in the mere selfishness of human nature to make the New-York Money Kings earnest in support of the Government and the war. Our capitalists have taken too much stock in the Government, to be willing for it to come to an untimely and ruinous end, by the triumph of Secession and the final overthrow of the Union.

Mr. Seymour and his main advocate, John Van Buren, may talk of peace, but they know, and the capitalists of New-York know, that there can be no peace with the revolted States, at present, save on the basis of their separation forever from the Union. They declare this on all occasions, in all modes, and in the most unmistakable manner. Suppose Mr. Seymour elected, then—the military power of the State of New-York in his hands, and his scheme of "peace and compromise" put in motion. He will be at once in direct conflict with the National authorities. The latter cannot afford to go to war with the New-York State constitutional authorities—and the result will be, New-York State will stand off from the support of the National Government, and chaos will be come again in all the North! What, then, will our "National Government" be worth? Will there be any such thing as a National Government any longer? And if there be a form of such Government still, what will be its power, its unity, its reliability, its resources? What will its debt of one thousand millions of dollars, incurred in a "fruitless war," be worth, cent. per cent., in the market?

Wall-street has too deep a stake in the result of the war to be willing to have it crumble in humiliating National defeat, and the rending of the Union. And not Wall-street only, but Broadway and the Bowery, and every other street in New-York and in every other city, in which so much of the nation's wealth exists in the form of the Government's vouchers and securities, will be compelled, by self-interest, as much as by pure patriotism, to resist an end of the war so disastrous as this. And thousands who are believed to sympathize politically with Mr. Seymour, and almost to desire his triumph, will yet recoil from the consequences that might attend his election, and will vote to-morrow against him. And this will be financial as well as political wisdom.

The Sixth Congressional District.—Hon. Frederick A. Conkling is the regular Union and Republican candidate for Congress in the Sixth District, composed of the Ninth, Fifteenth, and Sixteenth Wards; and unless the friends of the Government suffer themselves to be misled and divided, his election is certain. It seems especially unfortunate that, in a district so clearly controlled by loyal men, personal resentments among themselves should be allowed to throw it into the hands of their opponents.

Mr. Orison Blunt, who allows himself to be run, is a respectable and worthy man, and his loyalty is not questioned; but he has no claim to support on any ground of having been regularly nominated,—there is not the slightest chance of his election and every vote cast for him aids the election of the Seymour candidate. He was first put in nomination by ten or twelve individuals who did not even claim to represent any political organization or to represent anybody but themselves. Their object in this proceeding, as they have since avowed, was to force the Republicans and Union men to nominate Mr. Blunt, instead of Mr. Conkling, who had served the District one term faithfully and creditably, and whose renomination was expected, as a matter of course. The attempt did not succeed, and now Mr. Blunt is run for the sole purpose of defeating Mr. Conkling. We are surprised that he should lend himself to a proceeding so clearly factious in its origin and so damaging to the Government in its effects. Mr. Conkling has offered to withdraw, if Mr. Blunt will do the same, and give place to a fresh candidate, so as to save the District; but this reasonable proposition was declined.

We call upon the loyal voters of that District to see to it that it is not thrown away. It is quite possible that many true men may have personal objections to Mr. Conkling,—but they should not let such considerations control their votes in so important a crisis as the present. Mr. Blunt's support is confined almost exclusively to the Fifteenth Ward, where he is presented as a candidate "irrespective of party." This in one sense is true: he is not the candidate of any party, but only of a faction. Every vote cast for him is virtually cast for Elijah Ward.

We commend to public attention the card published in another column on this subject, by well-known citizens of the District.

New-Jersey Politics.

While the canvass in New-York is conducted with unusual excitement and vigor, our sister State of New-Jersey is also at this moment the theatre of an unprecedented political contest. Parties there, as here, have ranged themselves into two divisions, which are well characterized as the Peace Party or Submissionists, and the Unconditional Union or War Party. The indications now are that the latter will to-morrow carry the State. The candidate presented by the Union men of New-Jersey—Marcus L. Ward, of Newark—is a gentleman who, from the very commencement of the struggle, has given his whole time and influence to the cause of the Union, and to the interests and comfort of the soldiers in the field. Of a generous as well as statesmanlike character, his large and enlightened patriotism has been unremitting in every effort, both to sustain the Government, and to lighten the burden of the soldier. He has, without a thought of remuneration, completely devoted himself to the soldier. He has organized and systematized a method of forwarding the pay of the volunteers to their families, taking charge personally of the distribution of the money, and he has always been in advance of the tardy Government payments with sums from his private purse, reaching many thousands of dollars. He has lent a ready and sympathetic ear to the wants of those dependent upon the gallant men who are fighting their country's battles, writing their letters, sedulously guarding their interests, protecting them from imposition, and in all respects acting toward the thousands who looked to him for help, as a father or friend. He has personally and frequently visited the various military camps and hospitals, to ascertain their condition, and minister to the wants of the sick and wounded. He has been the founder of a noble hospital at Newark, designed first for New-Jersey volunteers, but afterward being found by the Government so admirably appointed, it was adopted as a United States institution, and now contains over 1,600 patients from all parts of the Union. It is no wonder, therefore, that Mr. Ward is idolized by the soldiers, who have bestowed upon him the title of the "Soldier's Friend," a prouder title than that of Lord or Prince. It is the almost unanimous desire of the New-Jersey contribution to the army that Mr. Ward should be elected Governor; for they feel that, understanding their wants, and with his heart enlisted in their welfare, their interests and comfort would be greatly advanced under his management of State affairs.

For the past eight years the active benevolence of Mr. Ward has caused him to see that no letter dropped unpaid into the Post through ignorance or neglect, was for an instant detained on that account. But quietly and unostentatiously, as good men always act, for all that time he has continued to prepay such letters. Hundreds of other instances of his munificent benevolence might be mentioned, which have been brought to light, but it is unnecessary to do so at present. The light of his charity has forced itself, notwithstanding his own modesty, upon the knowledge of the world. It is for these reasons, as well as because of his great ability and unquestioned loyalty, that those who love the Union, and desire to see this unholy rebellion crushed, have chosen him as their candidate.

The people of New-Jersey will be doing themselves an honor, and their country and its army a great service, by seeing that he is triumphantly elected, as it is now almost certain he will be.

Gen. Walbridge in the Fourth District.—Gen. Walbridge's tour of his District on Saturday was a complete ovation. The electors had given up, in despair, the expectation of offering any opposition to Ben. Wood, and had settled down into a sullen indifference as to their fate. The sudden appearance of Gen. Walbridge was hailed with all the enthusiasm that men can feel and express when a great and threatened calamity is averted. We can neither find nor hear of a single individual that really wishes to vote for Wood; on the contrary, he is thoroughly detested by every class in the district. He has not a redeeming quality. Cold and selfish, he expected to make the canvass without exhibiting himself to the people. He thought he had a sure thing, and that he could well afford to spend his time on Long Island. Such has been the force of party machinery that billeted out the district to Wood, that resistance was almost given up as hopeless. But the change wrought in a few hours, that Gen. Walbridge had consented to run, was magical. The Corn Exchange led off with a grand ratification meeting at half-past one. From thence Gen. Walbridge proceeded on a tour through the district, speaking to large audiences that collected on a few moments' notice in the Second, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth and Eighth Wards. Everywhere was he met with the same outburst of enthusiasm, which was intensified as it became more and more apparent that Mr. Wood would be nowhere in the contest. To-day, the General makes another triumphal march through the district, speaking at short intervals and receiving the congratulations of the public.

The Only True Loyalty.—"He that is not for me is against me," said the author of our religion; and by it He meant unqualified, unconditional, unhesitating, uncompromising devotion. He knew no other kind of fidelity. There is no acceptance of duty to Him with ifs and buts. Neither ought there to be in the most sacred of all earthly obligations—duty to country. The man who subordinates his patriotism to this or that object, who makes it dependent upon this or that condition, is not a true patriot. The man who inclines to meet treason half way, and parley with it, to [illegible] half a dozen [illegible]. Treason is a crime which we do not compound, or compromise with. When the rebels lay down their arms, then, and not till then, may there be talk of an adjustment—and even then an adjustment only under that Federal Constitution which is "the supreme law of the land."

The Constitution As It Is.—This is one of the pet phrases of the Seymourites; and yet there is not an intelligent man among them who does not know that Jeff. Davis and his crew would never come back to the Constitution as it is. They would demand new guarantees for Slavery, which would necessitate an amendment of the Constitution. This Seymourite cry is the sheerest humbug. There is really but one party which is in favor of preserving the Constitution as it is, and that is the Union War Party, which knows no other peace with the rebels than unconditional submission to the Constitution.

Consistency.—The World flouts at one of the Union War candidates as having been once a bar-tender, and asks whether "the barrels of a grog-shop are to be the stepping-stones to the high places of honor and trust;" and yet the same print is lending (?) itself to the support of Horatio Seymour, the pet candidate of the "Liquor Dealers' Association." Out upon such impudence.

Free Speech.—The Seymourites clamor that they are deprived of the right of speech, and yet daily utter, with perfect impunity, the most treasonable sentiments. Their own tongues belie them.

The Gubernatorial Canvass in New-Jersey—The Soldiers for Ward.

The following appeal, signed by all the New-Jersey soldiers now in the hospital at Newark, has been published in the New-Jersey papers:

The subscribers, soldiers in the army, now in Hospital from wounds and sickness, would express our gratitude for the untiring kindness we and all our comrades, who have come within the sphere of his influence, have received from Marcus L. Ward, of Newark, N. J. He is truly the friend of the soldier. When we are in the field, he sees to the wants of our families; if necessary, advances our pay, aids our correspondence; extricates us from every difficulty. When sick or wounded, he visits, relieves and comforts us, and all dependent upon us. It is a grief to many of us that we cannot, at the polls, testify our sense of his loyalty, ability and goodness, by aiding to elect him Governor. But we earnestly urge it upon our relatives and friends—all who value our blood and suffering—to act for us in this matter, and whatever their politics, vote for the man who deserves everything at our hands, the patriotic and self-sacrificing Marcus L. Ward.

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON.

OUR SPECIAL WASHINGTON DISPATCHES.

Washington, Sunday, Nov. 2.

THE OPERATIONS IN THE NEIGHBORHOOD OF ALDIE.

Stuart's late operations in the neighborhood of Aldie do not occasion great excitement here. It is expected by some that his next dash will be with the view of carrying of the President or Gen. McClellan, and as his enterprises are uniformly successful, some apprehension is felt for their safety.

The news received here to-night from the vicinity of Aldie and Middleburgh show that no important operations have taken place, beyond skirmishing between Pleasanton and Stuart, in which the losses on our side were very slight.

THE MILITARY COMMISSION.

The Military Commission closed the testimony in the Harper's Ferry case with that of Gen. Wool, and will now proceed to make up the record. The voluminous evidence taken will render this a work of some days, and till it is concluded, neither the Commission nor the Court of Inquiry in Gen. McDowell's case can proceed to any other business, unless the composition of the latter Court shall be changed, which is not impossible, in order to enable the Military Commission to examine the important matters expected to be brought before it.

GEN. M'CALL.

Gen. McCall, who is still suffering from his recent sickness, is at Willard's. He is preparing evidence in relation to the part taken by the Pennsylvania reserves in the battle of Malvern Hill, where, as has been admitted, they saved the commands of Heintzelman and Franklin from being cut off from the main body by Lee, Magruder and Longstreet.

FIRE IN A GOVERNMENT WAREHOUSE.

A fire broke out this evening in the Government warehouse on Maryland-avenue. The building, stored with hay, was destroyed: loss, $500. The Armory-square Hospital at one time was in great danger.

A PROGRAMME FOR DIVIDING THE UNION.

Advices received here from various sources leave no doubt that a concerted effort is being made by disunionists North, as well as South, and with the sympathy and co-operation of foreign enemies of the Union, to create a public sentiment in favor of letting our "wayward sisters depart in peace." The unexpected result of the late elections has done much to inspirit the operators in this enterprise; and they conceive nothing to be wanting to final success but to secure the control of the State of New-York, and a Democratic majority in the next House of Representatives. With these advantages gained, they consider themselves sufficiently strong for the card of foreign intervention, which is withheld only to be played at the decisive point in the game; and then they reckon on the exhaustion, cupidity and fears of the North for consent to a suspension of hostilities, and a convention for the purpose of [illegible]

[illegible] reliable statements, that in [illegible] temper of the Northwest, on which [illegible] largely, is misunderstood. Whenever that [illegible] men" of the Atlantic States shall consent to [illegible] the question of a boundary, the whole attitude of the New States will change, and the theory of a line dividing the North and the South will be set [illegible] once for another, separating the Atlantic States from the Valley of the Mississippi. All the elements of the present insurrection originated in the Old [illegible] and once let the theory of disunion be tolerated, the Alleghanies will be found assuming the character of a barrier, while the great river of the continent will resume the full political strength, a fraction of which has retained Missouri and Kentucky in the Union, and will render Louisiana and Texas easy conquests.

These parties, too, are counting largely on the timidity of the President, whom they believe to be bewildered and deceived by the results of the elections in the West and in Pennsylvania, and they openly boast here that the election of Seymour will be followed by an immediate recall of his Emancipation Proclamation, and a virtual submission to the dictation of the Peace Democracy.

GEN. M'CLELLAN INQUIRING THE ROAD TO RICHMOND.

Gen. McClellan was last week telegraphing to Gen. Hamp about the several railroads leading to Richmond, and their capacity for conveying troops. Gen. Hamp answered that the condition of the [illegible] by way of Fredericksburg—owing to the fact that the bridges had been burnt along the line, and in many places the track taken up—was such as to [illegible] der conveyance by that route impossible. He sent word, however, that the Orange and Alexandria road could be made available in short notice; and was capable of conveying four or five thousand tons per day.

It was suggested to repair the branch of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad leading to Winchester, the President of the road desiring that the Government shall take it and put it in order; but as it will probably not be particularly needed, the authorities have not felt disposed to undertake the enterprise.

A NEGRO EMEUTE IN LOWER MARYLAND.

That great apprehensions exists in regard to negro risings in Lower Maryland is unquestionable. The black population is there large; and the rebel army has been recruited from the whites to an extent most surprising. The citizens left are being drafted into the National service; and the result is that almost the only men left there will be negroes.

A short time since, Mr. CARPENTER, of Aujumoy District, Charles County, went one day into Virginia to persuade his son, a volunteer in the rebel army, to return home. While absent, his farm negroes, six in number, attacked his house early one morning, with the design of murdering the family. They retired, however, at the persuasion of a gun aimed at the crowd from a window by Mrs. CARPENTER. These facts becoming known, the neighbors assembled with the intention of hanging all the negroes on the farm; but, through the remonstrances of their mistress, they were finally let off with thirty-nine lashes on the bare back.

These events occurred within sight of our gunboats on the Potomac.

The negroes in that region seem fully informed in regard to the condition of affairs in the country, and confidently assert that after their masters have gone to the war they will have their way. What their way will be, when the flames of insurrection shall fully have been kindled in their tropical and semi-barbaric natures, it is not difficult, in view of recollections of Hayti and NAT TURNER to foresee.

ANOTHER CAPTURE OF SIOUX WARRIORS.

It would seem that the Indian warfare at the West still continues to some extent, from the fact that an expedition, under command of Lieut.-Col. MARSHALL, in Minnesota, on the 17th ult., captured a hundred and fifty Sioux, including thirty warriors. They were taken about half-way between the Big Sioux and James Rivers.

ESCAPING FROM THE DRAFT IN MARYLAND.

Numbers of the persons drafted in Maryland get on board vessels below Fort Delaware, bound for Havana and other foreign ports, and in this way make their escape from the service of the Government.

DISMISSED THE SERVICE.

Lieut. BERNHAN, Fourth United States Infantry, has been tried by court-martial, and found guilty of "absence without leave," and "conduct prejudicial to good order and military discipline," and sentenced to be dismissed the service of the United States.

TO THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

ALLOTMENTS OF NEW-YORK SOLDIERS.

WASHINGTON, Sunday, Nov. 2.

MR. THEODORE ROOSEVELT, one of the New-York Allotment Commissioners, has just arrived here, bringing with him the allotment rolls of forty of the additional regiments of that State, under the new levy. These allotments of pay amount to three millions of dollars per annum—an average of nearly ten dollars a month for every man making an allotment for the benefit of his family. The rolls of other regiments, under the late call, are not yet completed. An effort will be made by these Commissioners to induce all the other States to take advantage of this system, which has proved so eminently successful to the large number of regiments already in the field. These gentlemen say that the soldiers, by this means, are saved from many of the temptations to which they would otherwise be subjected, while their families are relieved from want.

RETURNS OF CASUALTIES IN BATTLE.

According to an order just issued by the War Department, hereafter, after every battle, skirmish or other engagement, the commanding officer of each regiment, battery or other detached portion of a regiment then present, will, in addition to the lists transmitted through intermediate commanders, promptly forward and direct to the Adjutant-General's Office, a correct return of the killed, wounded and missing, of his command. This order is rendered necessary by the fact that many of the returns, by being transmitted through the Brigade Headquarters, are detained and lost.

INFORMATION FOR CLAIM AGENTS.

Claim agents are informed that by their agency the payment of requisitions at the Treasury can be facilitated. Claims are paid in regular order, according to the date of the requisition, unless the parties elect to take certificates of indebtedness, bearing six per cent. interest, in which case, on being notified, the Secretary of the Treasury directs payment forthwith—twenty-five per cent. in money, and seventy-five per cent. in certificates, the latter being used by the Treasurer as rapidly as the necessary forms can be gone through with. Hence, there is no necessity for any intermediate agent.

THE PRESIDENT TO THE COLORED MEN.

President LINCOLN, through his Private Secretary, replied to the deputation of colored men who had called upon him to express their disappointment in the delay of their being sent, as promised, to Central America, that he (the President) was as anxious as he ever was for their departure; that he had placed everything in the hands of Senator POMEROY, of Kansas, and that he could not now see the deputation of colored men, but that he would do so in the course of a few days.

CAPT. MULLAN IN WASHINGTON.

Capt. JOHN MULLAN, United States Army, who has recently constructed an important military road across the Rocky Mountains in Washington Territory, has returned to this city. According to instructions from the War Department, he will proceed at once to organize a force of topographers, etc., on the final reports and maps of the line of road. It is considered that the Government has never undertaken a work of more importance in a military point of view than that now completed.

In its efforts to

and restore the Union and preserve the Constitution. It criticises with freedom whatever measures are not adapted to the accomplishment of these ends; but its steady purpose, from the beginning of the war, has been, and will be, to uphold the hands and strengthen the heart of the Government, while it puts forth its energies to protect us against the most unholy rebellion that ever disturbed the peace of any country.

The NEW-YORK OBSERVER is the most complete family newspaper

ELECTRICITY.

WONDERFUL DISCOVERIES
AND WONDERFUL RESULTS.

In announcing to the public a discovery so intimately connected with the well-being of our race, it may be deemed proper to make a few prefatory remarks to prepare the mind of the reader for the reception of evidences and facts too incredible for belief.

It is well known that the scientific world has been startled at different periods by important truth brought to their notice by innovators, and it is further known that each discovery in its turn has been ruthlessly assailed, and in fact, the more important the discovery the more numerous and inveterate have been the opposers. These facts borne in mind should impress every honest inquirer after truth, that the cry of humbug is not argument, and to arrive at facts and form correct conclusions, investigation is the only unerring guide. As to the nature of the wonderful and mysterious agent, Electricity, but little was known till the experiments of

Which proved its identity with that evolved by the ingenuity of man from friction, decomposition of metals, &c. The proof of this identity lifted the veil of obscurity, and led to the introduction of the lightning rod for the protection of life and property.

This discovery opened a new era in electrical science, and instead of longer looking upon it as a death-dealing enemy, it was hailed as a harbinger of safety, and man sought protection even from its fiery darts.

It was discovered that Electricity was ever-present and all-pervading, having such a strong affinity for certain metals, that it could be made to traverse a wire for miles and make known its presence. This fact led to an investigation of the subject, and a more intimate acquaintance with its nature and tractability.

In addition to its wonderful powers of locomotion, he found it possessed organs of speech, responding in familiar accents to the will of its master, and capable of writing with the ease and rapidity of a ready penman; and by means of this mysterious messenger we can hold familiar converse, though thousands of miles intervene.

Its influence upon the vegetable kingdom is equally surprising. By its accumulated presence, vegetation can be born into existence almost at the will of the operator. A full growth of salad can be grown from the seed in a few hours, and by its invigorating powers the drooping plant almost instantly revives.

The reader might here ask if Electricity is capable of doing all this, what may it not yet accomplish? The electrical discoveries above adverted to have conferred incalculable benefits upon our race, but nothing in comparison to what it has already accomplished, and is destined further to accomplish, for the relief of diseased humanity. Under its magic powers the ravings of the maniac are quieted, the palsied mind regains its powers, inflammations subside, tumors are reduced, ulcers heal, the blind see, cripples walk, the dumb speak, nervous irritation is allayed, the deaf hear, contracted muscles relax, the weak become strong, and every part of the human organism is invigorated, and brought into electrical harmony.

DR. CHAMBERLIN

Would here announce an important discovery he has made in electrical science; a discovery whereby the most obstinate acute or chronic maladies can be speedily and effectually eradicated from the human system by means of the potent agent Electricity. This discovery is not based on hypothesis or theory alone, is not the result of random experiments, but is the product of nearly twelve years' study, investigation and application of all the modifications of Electricity, from the inductive current to the intense galvanic, capable of removing from the human system mineral poisons and all other extraneous matter.

Is now permanently located at No. 50 BOND-ST., New-York, and solicits the attention of the diseased of body and mind, (and especially those given up as incurable by medical art,) to his successful method of curing disease.

The reader might here ask if he really cures such cases? In reply, he would say he has cured, is curing, and further, pledges himself to cure just such cases! He would further state that he is daily curing a class of diseases that have, in all ages, resisted the best medical skill and remedial agencies. Such, in fact, has been his success in curing obstinate maladies, that after an electrical diagnosis, he will guarantee a cure by special contract, when the patient desires it. CENTRAL OFFICE, SANITARY COMMISSION.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20, 1862.

The Sanitary Commission, at the request of Gen. Halleck, most earnestly advises against the practice of sending presents to soldiers of articles which it is supposed will add to the convenience of their camp life. To the knowledge of the Commission, many hundred tons of such presents are now piled uselessly in storehouses and yards, and upon old camp-grounds; while thousands have probably been destroyed to prevent their falling into the hands of the enemy, and but a small part of all that have been sent by those to whom they were addressed have been of the smallest value to them, except as tokens of the affectionate interest of their friends. For this purpose, letters and such other small and light articles as can be transmitted by mail would have been much better. Larger gifts occasion serious practical mischief—the officers being naturally averse to throwing them away—they add to the incumbrances, which are a chief cause of the excessive fatigue, and thus of the sickness, of the soldier. Volunteers almost universally, until they learn better by dear-bought experience, undertake to carry an excessive amount of clothing. To this cause, and to the excessive baggage of their officers, some of the severest losses of the Union forces in the present war are attributed by the highest military authority. But even when successful in battle, the attempt to secure comfort by the possession of an unusual amount of clothing is nearly always frustrated; the heaviest knapsack being thrown away at the first, long-continued hard march, while the light one is retained, and the long and heavily-laden wagon-trains being cut off, when the light and short one is protected. Similar observations apply to regimental hospitals. The hospital of a regiment in the field should be supplied with nothing but the barest necessities for the temporary treatment of the sick, who, in all serious cases, are removed as fast as possible to general hospitals, where the supplies of the regiment are not available. An excessive amount of regimental hospital stores and conveniences is a cruelty to the sick and wounded: for it occasions the frequent detention and separation from the regiment of the few articles essential to the usefulness of the surgeon. The Commission has from the first protested against a common error of surgeons in this respect, as well as against the greater evil of the common attempt of the volunteer soldiers to carry into the field too many of the means of comfort to which they are habituated in civil life. In compliance with the request of the General-in-Chief, this appeal is addressed to those by whose mistaken kindness both these evils are believed to have been greatly aggravated and sustained.

FRED. LAW OLMSTED, General Secretary.

WEEK'S PROGRAMME OF NEW AND OLD COMEDIES.

TUESDAY—
SPEED THE PLOUGH,
(In which Miss Mary Barrett, daughter of the late Mr. George Barrett, will make her first appearance on any stage.)

It has been justly remarked that in the above named play, one of the best of the standard comedies, the effect of some of the finest scenes has been diminished from their situations in the play.

Without interfering materially with the text, important and, it is hoped, judicious transpositions have been made.

The cast is greatly improved, and an entire new arrangement of the scenery and action introduced.

THURSDAY—SPEED THE PLOUGH.
FRIDAY—(Tenth time.)—BOSOM FRIENDS.

LOCAL POLITICS.

To the Voters of the Sixth Congressional District.

We are on the eve of the most important election ever held in this State. The destiny of the Union, to a large degree, depends on its result. The question at issue is whether the People of New-York will continue to sustain the Government in a vigorous prosecution of the War, or will give aid and comfort to the rebels, by embarrassing the Administration and weakening the Government.

Next in importance to the election of JAMES S. WADSWORTH as Governor, is the election of faithful, competent Union men as Representatives in Congress. Party candidates, party issues, and party preferences should be utterly ignored at such a moment as this, and the votes of all loyal men should be cast so as to secure the success of Union Congressmen in every District.

In this, the Sixth Congressional District, four candidates are presented for our suffrages: FREDERICK A. CONKLING, Republican and Union; ELIJAH WARD, Seymour Democrat; ORISON BLUNT, People's Union Eli P. NORTON, Constitutional Union.

Mr. NORTON is the representative of an organization which, from want of numbers, cannot hope to accomplish any other result than that of weakening the other candidates. Mr. WARD has accepted a party nomination from the supporters of HORATIO SEYMOUR, calling themselves the Democratic Party, but who, unlike the loyal war Democrats who are sustaining the Union at home and in the field, place themselves upon the distinct ground, not of hostility to the rebels, but of hostility to the Government. The remaining candidates, Mr. BLUNT and Mr. CONKLING, both stand upon unconditional Union ground, and both claim the votes of the loyal men of the District.

These candidates cannot both be elected. If the Union vote of the district is equally divided between them, the election of the Seymour candidate is inevitable. On the supposition that neither withdraws from the canvass, each elector must decide for himself for which he will vote. The candidate most distinctly representing the vigorous war policy and measures of the present Congress, and whose election would most clearly indicate the popular determination to sustain that policy, is plainly best entitled to the votes and the labors of the loyal men of the district. It cannot be doubted that Mr. CONKLING, to a far greater degree than Mr. BLUNT, occupies this position. He was and is now our Representative in Congress, and during the last two sessions, in the most critical period of our national existence, has, by his speeches, his acts, and his votes, proved his fidelity to the Union and his uncompromising hostility to its enemies. In addition to his personal integrity and tried qualifications, his experience and acquaintance with the views of the Government, and with the details of Congressional duty, preëminently qualify him for the arduous and responsible post which he has already filled. His reëlection will be a verdict of the people of this district in favor of the policy of which he has been the consistent and successful supporter; it would strengthen the hands of the Government, and satisfy the public sentiment, which demands the utter extermination of the rebellion.

In addition to the foregoing considerations, the fact that Mr. BLUNT, although put forward by those who justly admire his high personal qualities and his devotion to the Union, has received no nomination except that tendered by an independent convention, while Mr. CONKLING is presented as the nominee of the regularly constituted Union and Republican Convention, leads irresistibly to the conclusion that the regular Union vote of the district will be cast for Mr. CONKLING to such an extent as to make the support of Mr. BLUNT a mere waste of votes, which, if cast for Mr. CONKLING, may insure his election by a large majority.

Under these circumstances, the undersigned, believing that votes cast for Mr. BLUNT will only contribute to elect the Seymour candidate, respectfully urge on their fellow citizens of this District to unite in giving our present Representative, FREDERICK A. CONKLING, a cordial, active and untiring support.

To Editors, Reporters, and Telegraphers Throughout the State of New-York.

To simplify matters and reduce the pressure on the telegraph lines on Tuesday night, you are hereby requested to send to the Associated Press the full vote of the towns heard from for Governor alone.

The vote by counties, or reliable estimates thereof, is also desirable, and may be sent in addition to the foregoing.

The vote for other candidates on the State ticket should not be telegraphed.

As regards Congressmen, majorities will be preferable to full returns; and in relation to Members of Assembly, the names of the persons elected, with their politics, is all which is required.

Attention to these regulations will greatly facilitate the Press and the public, in arriving at an early knowledge of the result of the election.

Respectfully, &c.,
D. H. CRAIG, Agent Associated Press.

Special Order from Superintendent Kennedy.

OFFICE OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF THE METROPOLITAN POLICE, No. 413 BROOME-STREET, CORNER OF ELM, NEW-YORK, NOV. 1, 1862.

GENERAL ORDER No. 323.—Capt. ——, Precinct ——: The Police telegraph instrument, after sundown on Nov. 4th inst., will be used exclusively in transmitting election returns. The only exception will be in notifying the Central Office of any serious disturbance requiring aid, the locality of a fire or the detention of lost children. No communication whatever must be made between one Station-house and another during the period of transmitting election returns, unless on an order from the Central Office. You will so dispose of the members of your command as to insure the transmitting of the result of the canvass of each ticket at the several election districts in your Precinct to your Station-house without delay, thence to be sent immediately by election districts to the Central Office. The Fifth, Sixth, Eighth, Tenth and Fourteenth Precincts will send these returns forthwith by special messengers. The remaining stations and sub-stations will transmit by telegraph. Direct the men who are so engaged in bringing the returns of the canvass to the station-house, to also bring with them the returns of the Associated Press, which you will deliver to the special messenger duly appointed to receive the same. No question relative to the progress of the canvass will be answered from the Central Office, but as soon as the canvas of each district is completed, the Result will, on alarm, be transmitted to every station-house, for the information of the residents in its vicinity.

Sergt. —— is especially detailed to operate the instrument at your station-house, from sundown to 12 o'clock midnight, and Sergt. —— from 12 o'clock until the canvass is ended.

JOHN A. KENNEDY,
Superintendent Metropolitan Police.

A Card from Mr. John W. Farmer.

NEW-YORK, Saturday, Nov. 1, 1862.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

DEAR SIR: The impression that I am still in the field being industriously circulated by the Fernando Wood party, I beg thus publicly to state that I am not. I consider the man little better than a traitor who, under existing circumstances, would in the least degree aid in the election of such a man as FERNANDO WOOD, whom we know to be, at least, a sympathizer with rebellion.

I shall support JOHN DUFFY, and implore all my friends, and every lover of his country, to do likewise.

Yours, &c., JOHN W. FARMER.

POSITION OF MR. A. A. LOW.—The statement has been industriously circulated that A. A. Low, Esq., intended to vote for SEYMOUR. We are authorized to deny this. Mr. Low will do no such thing. Capitalists are apt to hesitate before lending themselves to schemes intended to establish unfriendly relations between our State and National Governments.

Kings County Politics.

ASSEMBLY NOMINEES.

Matters political in the Second Assembly District are in a terrible snarl. The Submissionists have placed before the People Mr. "E. O. PERRIN, of Tennessee," ex-Know-Nothing, whose antecedents political are not such as entitle him to the votes of any save the parties who nominated him and the stockholders of certain city railways. Also, by the Opposition-to-Government Party, Mr. BERNARD HUGHES, is nominated. Neither of these gentlemen represent the loyal sentiment of the Second District, and we would be glad to chronicle their defeat. This would be an easy task were the Union men united in a nomination. The Republicans proper have nominated Mr. HENRY A. BOWEN, a young man of no political experience whatever, while other parties, undoubtedly loyal, have nominated Mr. MARQUIS D. MOORE, a good and true man, but whose political antecedents have made for him enemies as well as friends. The consequence is that the Union vote of the District will be divided.

It was suggested in the TIMES of yesterday that Messrs. BOWEN and MOORE, who are personally popular with many and personally unpopular with others, should withdraw in favor of some tried man like Mr. S. B. CHITTENDEN (who would accept the nomination), Mr. A. A. LOW or some other citizen of known worth, integrity, influence and ability, in which event the election of the Union candidate would be almost a certainty.

On Saturday night the Convention met, and a letter from Mr. BOWEN was presented in which he volunteered his resignation, provided Mr. MOORE would do the same. To this Mr. MOORE's friends demurred, and negotiations having dropped, the four candidates will do each his best to-morrow.

The Republicans of the Third Assembly District, have renominated for the Assembly Hon. WILLIAM M. THOMAS, who represented the District last year. Mr. THOMAS was a useful member of the last Assembly, whose vote could be relied on for any good measure and against any bad one, and we venture to say that he did not fail to carry any measure which he undertook. The Republicans of the District could not have done a wiser thing than they did in presenting his name again; and they will neglect their own interests if they fail to poll every vote for him. His District comprises the Fourth and Tenth Wards of Brooklyn, and is considered sure for such a candidate.

In the Sixth District, Hon. SAMUEL T. MADDOX has been renominated by the Republicans. Mr. MADDOX was chairman of the Committee on expenditures of the last House, and displayed an intelligence, honesty, and zeal which commended him to all. He is a Union War Republican, of the most reliable stamp, and men who desire to be represented faithfully, to have this State sustain the Government in its struggle with the rebellion, cannot do better than vote for him.

We are glad to see that the practice of nominating men who have had experience in legislation has, in the two latter instances, been observed by the Republicans of Kings County, especially when their record is so free from blemish as is that of Mr. MADDOX and Mr. THOMAS. We hope to see them both successful.

The following circular is doing, as it should, a good work:

BROOKLYN, Friday, Oct. 31, 1862.

To the Voters of Kings County:

We, the undersigned citizens of Brooklyn, respectfully commend for your support at the ensuing election, JOHN WINSLOW, who is a candidate for reelection to the office of District-Attorney for the County of Kings. Mr. WINSLOW is the present District-Attorney, and, as is well-known to our citizens, has discharged the important duties of that office faithfully and efficiently. The nature of the office of District-Attorney is such, that, in our judgment, it should be filled, not so much in reference to partisan considerations, as to that of fitness and ability. We sincerely believe that the highest interest of our entire community will be best subserved and promoted by the reelection of Mr. WINSLOW to the office of District-Attorney.

Union Meeting at Middletown.

SPEECHES BY COL. HAMILTON, OF TEXAS, GEN. RODGERS, OF TENNESSEE, H. J. RAYMOND, AND OTHERS.

MIDDLETOWN, N.Y., Sunday, Nov. 2.

A very large Union meeting was held here last night. As the crowd was three times as large as any building in town would hold, the meeting was held in the open air. Torches and lamps in the trees gave an abundance of light, the night was calm and mild, and for four hours the audience gave earnest and enthusiastic attention to the speakers who addressed them.

Hon. A. J. HAMILTON spoke for an hour, mainly in exposition of the real character and objects of the rebellion. He showed that instead of being a revolution, prompted by intolerable oppression on the part of the Government, it was a conspiracy against Democratic and Republican institutions, and that its success would destroy all hope of free Government forever. He scouted the idea that it could be settled by conciliation or compromises of any sort, and insisted that our olive-branch politicians are really serving the cause and promoting the objects of the rebels. The rebellion, he said, must be crushed out, and he heartily approved of the President's proclamation—as would every loyal man in the South—as the heaviest and most effective blow yet struck at the rebel cause. His speech was very earnest and eloquent, and was listened to with the greatest interest.

Gen. RODGERS, of Tennessee, an Aid of Gen. JACKSON in the last war, and now an exile from his home on account of his love of the Union, followed with some interesting incidents of personal experience, and urged those who heard him to do nothing that would discourage or cripple the Government in its efforts to crush the rebellion by force of arms.

Mr. H. J. RAYMOND, of New-York, in a speech of over an hour, discussed the immediate bearing of the coming election on the fate of the Union, and discussed the speeches of Messrs. SEYMOUR and VAN BUREN, answering the objections urged against the Union ticket and candidate.

Hon. SAMUEL J. WILKIN closed with a few remarks, giving his most earnest and cordial approval to the sentiments of the preceding speakers, and declaring that he could not see how any lover of his country could hesitate for a moment as to his duty in the present canvass.

The President, Mr. FROST, made some very happy remarks, and at 11½ o'clock the meeting adjourned.

REV. HENRY WARD BEECHER ON THE CRISIS.

Vast Crowd at Plymouth Church—Hypocrites Denounced and the People Warned.

An immense congregation thronged Plymouth Church last evening, the expectation prevailing that Rev. Mr. BEECHER would in his discourse make some allusion to the important pending election.

Long before the regular hour for the opening of service, every portion of the church was occupied. The body of the house, packed as it was with ladies, presented an impressive and animated spectacle, to which the drapery of American colors that enwreathed the pulpit and galleries, on all sides, contributed a brilliant as well as patriotic glow. That no pleasant influences might be lacking, two large and beautiful bouquets ornamented the pastoral desk. Among many others of note, Gen. CASSIUS M. CLAY occupied a prominent seat, and attracted some attention.

Mr. BEECHER opened the exercises of the evening with a fervent and expressive prayer, in which the mercy and guidance of the Almighty, in this our day of National trial were passionately invoked.

The 958th hymn,

"Oh God, beneath thy guiding hand
Our exiled fathers crossed the sea,"

Was then read and sung, and the reverend pastor announced his text to be that striking passage in Job 1, chapter xxxiv., verse 30.

"That the hypocrite reign not, lest the people be ensnared."

The whole context of the same chapter, said Mr. BEECHER, is worthy of deep attention, and proceeding to read it from the 17th verse to the 30th, he commented upon it in his peculiar vein as he went along.

God, he said, was the greatest Democrat in the universe. He drew no distinctions. Potentates and subjects, Princes and beggars were alike in His sight. In going to heaven, men went to true Democracy. The Book of Job was written at some period between Abraham and Moses, and was one of the very earliest of the sacred writings; yet, dating far back as it did, even at the time when it was penned, the controversy as to whether God directly governs the world by moral law already existed, and this whole chapter of the text is an assertion in the affirmative. It maintains and proves that the Almighty does exercise such government through all the different departments of the individual, the family, the commercial and the civil life of man. We are prone to seek for evidences of this great truth exactly where they are not apparent, and to pass by them where they are. But an examination of the progress of the evil and the just man, under God's management, affords such proof in abundance. And so, likewise, in all departments of National affairs, that civil government is in just as much subject to the rule as man in his moral relations. Civil Government is of God; the nature of man requires such government, although God has not dictated the forms it is to assume, but left his creature to adapt the form to his requirements. So while he made man, he did not fashion the clothes he must wear, nor prescribe on a bill of fare the food he must eat, but left these details to man himself. Thus, then, the necessity of some government wrought out a civil polity, depending exactly upon the condition of the mass to be governed, for a system not adapted to the needs of the case could not long subsist. Governments are the shadows which nations and peoples themselves cast, and they are never much out of proportion to the moral shape and stature of their originals. The lowest condition of man calls, then, for the strongest Government. If the status of a given people is that of animals, you must harness them and urge them on to work forward by sheer force. Animalism requires this physical government. It is only when a higher position has been reached that you can begin to relax this stringency, and turn to intellectual government. The child of four must be governed through the skin, while the enlightened man of forty is to be reached through the heart and the brain. This first, or lowest form, then, is absolutism gradually relaxing into more limited monarchy, as more and more men in a State acquire culture and learn to think.

The next or middle form of Government is aristocracy—or, as it originally meant, authority wielded by the best—i. e., the most eminent, able and cultivated men in a community. This form is the growth of intelligence more advanced and with a greater number than in any absolute monarchy. It is a system of orders and classes.

The third form is where all men are fully emancipated from ignorance, and this is the highest, best and last form of man's social development and organization, viz.: A pure Democracy—the government of the people by itself.

Democracies had been attempted in the earliest ages, but had all, at last, ignominiously failed. The Jewish people were at one time spoken of as a commonwealth, but they never were such. Theirs was either a government of chiefs over tribes, or of priests, under the name of "theocracy"—in fine, a strong government.

Absolute government, then, depending simply upon the condition of the governed is just as possible now as ever, where the people are fit for nothing else. God's providence adapts the means to the end, and whatever form we find existing on a firm basis anywhere is undoubtedly the one most suitable where it is. Now in this our country it has ever been believed that monarchical government is impossible—that we cannot be ruled by force. But you can if you be ignorant and wicked—in fact, even now, large portions of this land can be controlled in no other way. August laughs and says I have no frosts, all the heritage of sunshine is my own, and September, too, repeats the boast though with a feebler voice; October faintly echoes it and leads November in; but, after every August, comes a January, as, by God's blessing, after every January comes an April. You can, again, have PHARAOHS, if you will, although for all of them a Red Sea comes we hope! Yes, if you bring back ignorance, and superstition, and wrong, and befuddle with over-fed prosperity and rank corruption, tyranny will come back, too!

There can be no self-government without virtue. The rule of Divine Providence would seem to be that each nation should have some allotted principle, or principles, to eliminate and develop. Then, changing, disintegrating, or passing away, its successor takes up the task where it left off, and pushes further on, but ever tending in that one direction which is the ultimate track of all humanity. In our day, a curious historical feature is the rejuvenescence of old nations, and the decline of new ones. In ancient times, when a nation fell, it died, and ones dead, it was gone forever. But, now, there is a resurrection of once prostrate empires. Italy, glorious Italy, nay even Spain and Austria, are reviving and growing strong and young again, all this proving that we are in the latter periods of the world. How is it with us—with our young and grand Republic? Now, Republican Governments cannot be had merely by legislation, but by inner compelling causes for their origin. They must be the outworkings of the spirit of the people, otherwise, even in seeming to be free, a nation is in bondage, being blinded and controlled by cunning men, who abuse the forms of liberty in wielding moral despotism. It is in such a case that the meaning of our text has its chief application "that the hypocrite reign not and the people be ensnared!" Even in the bosom of a free State, there exist elements of antagonism, and influences are found tending in an opposite directions. There are even religious institutions that teach the love of governing—the lust of power—but despite all these, the nations are moving right onward. Absolutism daily dwindles, and liberty, with the ever-growing dawn, expands. Monarchies are ascending into aristocracies, and the latter into republics. Hierarchies have had their day, and the tendency of the whole world, in all its departments, is to develope and elevate the common people. Even religion is taking on more democratic forms, and the value of man—not according to his surroundings, but as a mere creature of mortality—has risen in the market. The missionary enterprises of churches and great Governments, seeking out the darkest, poorest homes of barbarism to pour in light and civilization prove this. Why, in old times, even down to the days of the Apostles, the stranger shipwrecked on the shore forfeited life and all he had for the mere crime of birth elsewhere. With the Greeks, the value of the "foreigner" was just nothing at all. They called all outside languages "noises" and despised everything not of themselves. The contrast of this spirit with that of foreign nations is remarkable. Now, the value of man, because he is a man, alone, is transcendent, and for 2,000 years past everything has worked in that direction. At this day all inventions, arts, mechanical contrivances are not for the benefit of the wise and great alone. They profit, indeed, but the poor, especially, draw help from them. Steam lets the poor man travel, weaves for him fine fabrics, cooks for him fine food, and makes him what Dives scarce could be in days of yore. The common laborer is better fed in our time, than ALEXANDER was in his, and the poorest seamstress sits down daily to repasts that would have made Queen ELIZABETH stare. In SHAKESPEARE'S time, princes fed on what we might properly call "fodder," and the diet of a prisoner now in Sing Sing would have been the envy of royalty two hundred years ago. Labor has now less drudgery, and every iron muscle that replaces one of flesh sets free a thousand that had no right to slave. Even in literature we see this great advance. Down to the very day of COWPER, even poetry abounded in supercilious mention of the "poor." But, withal, the contrast thus traceable between the past and the present in another point of view, exists between this country and other countries. For 200 years, Europe has been steadily unfolding her development, throwing off her cerements, stretching out her arms and getting her feet ready for marching. While America, starting in the race with the sincerest Christian democracy—for such were the earliest colonies—has been steadily moving in the opposite direction, and founding here the most hideous of all tyrannies—the rule of the white strong over the black weak! Europe hearing onward and upward the glorious torch of freedom unto perfect day; America rushing down with it into cimmerian darkness!

The Free States of the North have only just turned back in time. The war they make in the struggle to escape, is a war of ideas, of fundamental and eternal principles. It is the spirit of absolute Governments—of the old oppressive Governments, ever hostile to the spirit of self-government—is what they have to meet. We know that we shall have the final victory; but whether through and reverse and through cycles of delay, we cannot tell. The Right is on our side—every idea of God's providence, every aspiration of the human soul struggling upward, every hope of humanity, the cry of the coming generations, the scheme of universal liberty filling the void with prayer and warning—exhort us not to yield, not to compromise, but to go right onward, to do battle to the bitter end in this great, good fight. The principle of darkness, the banded minions of oppression, all the congregated elements of evil assail the house of liberty. In the habit of saying distinctly what I think, and I do declare that the opposition now formed here in the North against this Government is the meanest, the blackest, the most hypocritical ever conceived on earth. There, they have the benefit of my candid opinion, if they want it. [Laughter and applause.] And now, I add that, whatever may have been my friendships, and they are warm at all times, I will not stand, I will not strike hands—no, not with my own brother—with those who are not, now, openly and forever on the side of liberty. I had in this contest meant to overlook all party divisions, but now when I see Satanic influences—and such they, no doubt, are—again combining against the North, I will not touch any man who is with them, unless it be with the besom or the rod. We have no material for conflict here among us, and the blood, the massacre, of the old Paris days of murderous revolution might well return did not those who foster—and such men there are, beyond peradventure, in our midst—cloak their wickedness in a sort of sneaking prudence. They come toward the Government, saying "How art thou, my brother!" while they plunge their dagger under the fifth rib. Then, brethren, rise to the imminence of the danger. Cast your votes for liberty—cast them as far as you can out of this night of rebellion, toward God's throne! Go back to the days of JEFFERSON and MADISON, and FRANKLIN, and stand by them and their great principle—"All men free and equal!" Never can we have such a war again so cheap. Compromise will bring no peace. Such peace would, at each recurring election, revive the question whether some other State should not go out from the Union of liberty. You have got upon your feet—keep on them; you have got your hands out and your hearts to strengthen them—keep them out and stretch them further! Never was such a spectacle of shame before beheld as for fifty years was seen in the national House of Representatives. Northern doughfaces cringing in the presence of Southern slavedrivers! Let it never be seen again. Does material interest stand in the way? The slave freed will spend $100 in your factories where the slave in bondage can't spend one dollar. The slave buys no books, no carpets, no pianos. Freedom makes commerce; the plow will say to the farmer, Freedom makes me bright,—vote for Freedom! The forge will say, Freedom makes me musical,—vote for Freedom! The ship yard will say, Freedom makes me merry,—vote for Freedom! All the factories will sing this anthem, excepting one kind only—the cat-o'-nine-tail factory—and it, too, on second thought, will join the chorus. The loom, the spinning-jenny, and the mill will echo it. The natural state of man is not simplicity, it is complexity of wants; it is not poverty, it is comfort! Like the tree, man rises first a naked stem, but the expanding oak shoots forth ten thousand branches, and asks more room below, more heaven space above! Everything pleads for the policy of emancipation, and now that it is uttered, let us not fall back. If we go to pieces, who shall restore the shattered temple? The Phydian marble mourns in Athens, amid the ruins of the rent Acropolis, and points the moral of the broken State. The doctrine of division and secession is the doctrine of devils. Let us have no part in it, but cling to one Government, one Constitution, one policy—the doctrine of all men free and equal—and all the machinery of devildom shall not prevail. Go forth, then, young men, be skillful and be wise. May God guide your footsteps in this hour, I look forward with deepest interest, I will not say solicitude, to the coming week's election, yet I have learned something of late that tells me not to fear. The Satanic influence will quail before the bright ranks that march onward for truth, for good government—for liberty here, for the liberty of the whole world!

After singing the 970th hymn:

"God's glory is a wondrous thing,
Most strange in all its ways."

And a concluding prayer and benediction, the dense throng dispersed, deeply impressed by a discourse all the more significant, from the fact that Mr. BEECHER was until recently warmly in favor of Mr. MOSES F. ODELL, whose devotion to party, however, has dissolved the tie.

No Draft in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Sunday, Nov. 2.

The Draft Commissioners announced, officially, that the volunteers from Philadelphia number 34,851, being 1,439 over the quota required to fill the call for six hundred thousand men.

Claims for extra credit beyond that ascertained by the Enrollment Assessors, were made by one hundred and thirteen precincts. The remaining one hundred and one precincts made no claims.

The Commissioners report that no draft will be necessary in Philadelphia, the quota being filled.

Arrival of Major-Gen. Banks in Boston.

BOSTON, Sunday, Nov. 2.

Major-Gen. BANKS arrived here by the midnight train on Saturday, and was welcomed by a great crowd, who gathered at the depôt with a band of music.

Gen. BANKS briefly returned his thanks and was escorted to the Parker House.

Card from Uriah Levison.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

In the matter of my late arrest upon a charge of receiving goods, alleged to have been stolen, I desire to say that I purchased the articles claimed by Mr. RAVEN, in perfect good faith, from a person who had formerly been in my employ for months, and whose honesty I had the utmost confidence, and I ask a suspension of public opinion in the premises until the examination I have demanded has been had, when I shall be able to establish my innocence conclusively.

Yours, &c., URIAH LEVISON.

AMUSEMENTS.

The announcements at the theatres to-night are as follows: At Mr. WALLACK'S, the new comedy, "Bosom Friends;" at the Winter Garden, Mr. EDWIN BOOTH as Claude Melnotte, in the "Lady of Lyons," (a part which singularly suits the youth, good looks and bearing of the actor;) at Niblo's Garden, "Jack Cade," (one of Mr. FORREST'S best parts,) and to-morrow evening, "Camille," with Miss MATILDA HERON.

Mr. HARRISON'S series of GOTTSCHALK concerts came to an end on Saturday, when a grand matinée attracted the illeges in overwhelming force to the resplendent hospitality of Irving Hall. There is little to be said of the entertainment, except that it was fully equal to its predecessors—a statement which with commendable brevity, means a degree of excellence rarely attained in the concert room. By a judicious succession of new vocal artists, Mr. HARRISON has contrived to give a different musical coloring to each of his numerous programmes, adding thereby to the steady public appreciation and standard excellence of Mr. GOTTSCHALK'S individual performances, which of course were the leading attractions. Cheapness and excellence do not often go together, but Mr. HARRISON handles the reins as if he were accustomed to that often desired, but seldom obtainable, team. The Matinés on Saturday was filled to overflowing, and the whole series has been eminently successful in a pecuniary as well as an artistic sense.

Mr. ANCHUTZ'S Opera, at WALLACK'S old theatre, is conducted with so much spirit and completeness, that it is no wonder it continues to attract not only the attention of the German but also of the American part of the musical community. It happens somewhat fortunately that the limits of the company and the capacity of the house, have compelled Mr. ANCHUTZ to eschew for the moment the greater works of the German repertoire, and as a substitute, to revive some charming works of the French school. A few days ago we referred with pleasure to the enjoyable way in which BOIELDIEU'S "Jean de Paris" had been produced. It merited and obtained a decided success and has only been withdrawn in order that the "Postillion of Lonjumeau" might have a hearing. This work was produced on Friday evening, and with even more than the usual degree of favor. The music is of a kind that pleases on a first hearing, and satisfies on repetition, combining, as it does, all the vivacity of AUBER, with a larger range of idea and expression than can usually be detected in that prolific author's productions. The melodies are fluent and strongly marked; the orchestral suggestions with which they are accompanied full of meaning, and the choruses spirited and pleasing. It would be difficult to mention a word of similar proportions where these characteristics are more prominent, and almost as difficult to recall a performance where the best features (the orchestral and choral) of a charming work were better preserved. The orchestra and chorus, under Mr. ANSCHUTZ'S steady bâton, could hardly have been more efficient; the soloists were full of enthusiasm for their parts, and sang wisely, if not too well. HERR QUINT appeared to be laboring under a severe cold, but wrestled with the Romanza and the rest of the lengthy music with northern pluck, and not without success. Madame ROTTER, as Madeline, somewhat exceeded the exigencies of her rôle, and, we regret to say, raged in the stormy points of her musical compass without mercy to the auricular susceptibilities of the audience. She has so much tact and talent, that it is a pity the lady should be deficient in musical elegance. Every singer possesses certain loud notes which art has failed to modify; but few care to exercise them so liberally as does Madame ROTTER. Properly "toned down," the lady would be a good Madeleine. The remaining characters were excellently sustained, and the whole impression being decidedly favorable to the composer and the management, the opera may safely be pronounced a marked success.

The Philharmonic Society of Brooklyn gave its first performance of the (Sixth) Season on Saturday evening, the gorgeous halls of the Academy of Music being crowded on the occasion. The programme opened with R. SCHUMANN'S Symphony, No. 1, in B—a work which is less excellent than the well-known one in C—but which exhibits the bold, and in some instances, fresh ideas of the composer in a highly popular vein, and is likely, therefore, to be well received by a mixed audience. It was excellently played by the orchestra, under the direction of Mr. THEODOR EISFELD, and warmly applauded by the subscribers. The other orchestral items were CHERUBINI'S overture to "Medea,"—an instance of learned lightness which somehow does not take—and WEBER'S ever delightful overture to "Oberon." Both were rendered with good effect. The Brooklyn Philharmonic Society always sets a fine example in the way of soloists, although it is somewhat radical in the matter of the music it allots to them. On the present occasion, Madame BORCHARD, Mr. L. M. GOTTSCHALK, Miss BARNETCHE, and Mr. WM. CASTLE were the vocal and instrumental attractions. It is only necessary to speak of the first. Madame BORCHARD, in the aria from the "Domino Noir," and in RODE'S air and variations, displayed all the best characteristics of a first-class artist. Her execution and intonation are almost faultless, and her neat style, and intelligent perception of meaning, recall—and not to Madame BORCHARD'S disadvantage—the best days of Madame LAGRANGE. Something might be said about the voice of either lady, but on the present occasion, it is not necessary. Madame BORCHARD is an admirable artist, and merits the fullest recognition at the hands of the public.

Miss BATEMAN will begin a season at the Howard Athenæum, Boston, on the 10th of next month. The favorite plays of this popular and talented artiste will be revived on this occasion.

Barnum's Museum continues to be thronged, as heretofore, with the curious in matters of natural history. The performance in the lecture-room are maintained with great spirit,—BOUCICAULT'S drama of "Pauvrette" being still the great attraction.

A visit to "TIRRELL'S Panorama of California," or to GEO. CHRISTY'S Minstrels, will help to while away an evening almost as agreeably as going to the play.
